Indirect Taxation on Insurance Contracts in Europe European Insurance Committee,2001      Summary of Indirect Taxation on Insurance Contracts in Europe ,1999      Summary of Indirect Taxation on Insurance Contracts in Europe 2006 ,2006      Summary of Indirect Taxation on Insurance Contracts in Europe London International Insurance and Reinsurance Market Association,1997      Indirect Taxation on Insurance Contracts in Europe Comité européen des assurances,1998      Summary of indirect taxation on insurance contracts in Europe International Underwriting Association of London,2002      Indirect Taxation on Insurance Contracts in Europe Comité européen des assurances,1994      Insurance in European VAT Marta Papis-Almansa,2016-11-30 Insurance constitutes a significant part of the financial services sector and is one of the foundations of modern economy and society In the design of tax laws however whether and how to tax insurance is a complex issue that has become particularly controversial in the area of value added tax VAT In the European Union as in most of the world insurance is exempt from VAT but New Zealand and Australia do not follow this practice Given that New Zealand s simple comprehensive goods and services tax GST called the world s purest value added tax and its modified Australian version do not appear to suffer from the shortcomings in efficiency and effectiveness that plague European VAT a comparison of the two systems is in order This book is not only the first comparative in depth study of the treatment of insurance in the two systems but also the first comprehensive legal research devoted to the treatment of insurance in EU VAT published in English Among the underlying issues and topics treated by the two systems covered are the following who has a right to deduct input VAT in relation to supplies inherent in insurance arrangements and to what extent what constitutes a supply of insurance and consideration for such a supply what transactions fall within the scope of the VAT Directive s exemption for insurance and drawing a line between insurance and saving The analysis is grounded in a methodology in which concepts of European VAT are compared with concepts performing the same function in the Australian and New Zealand GST laws The author concludes with proposals for reform in EU VAT in the light of experience in these two major non EU countries Given that it has been proven that exemptions from VAT such as insurance cause a significant number of economic distortions and inefficiencies this study represents a major contribution to a topical debate in European VAT law It will be welcomed by taxation authorities interested policymakers practitioners and scholars not only in Europe but worldwide      Summary of Indirect Taxation on Insurance Contracts in Europe 2005 International Underwriting Association of London,2005      Voluntary Health Insurance in Europe: Role and Regulation Sagan A.,Thomson S.,2016-07-20 If public resources were unlimited there would be no gaps in health coverage and no real need for VHI However most health systems face fiscal constraints and VHI is often seen as a way to address these pressures This study draws from the experiences of 34 countries to assess VHI s contribution to health spending and to understand its role in Europe and in relation to publicly financed coverage It looks at who sells VHI who purchases it and why It also reviews public policy towards VHI at national and EU levels and the related national policy debates The analysis shows that while the different markets for VHI vary considerably in size operation and regulation the vast majority are small Where there are substantial markets these tend to be the oldest ones having a tradition of non profit insurers and to be the most heavily regulated to ensure VHI policies are accessible and affordable The study also suggests that VHI is normally a better way of meeting population health needs than out of pocket payments although there are notable exceptions VHI can contribute to financial protection especially where it plays a substitutive and complementary role covering co payments However it is a complex challenging and highly context specific policy instrument that may undermine other health system goals including equitable access efficiency transparency and accountability even where markets are well regulated Policy makers should therefore exercise real caution before expanding VHI to fill coverage gaps This volume and its companion set of country profiles were developed jointly by the Observatory s LSE hub and the WHO Regional Office for Europe The study draws on contributions from national experts from the EU EFTA and other countries in Europe
