Social and Ethnic Inequalities in the Cypriot Education System Areti Stylianou, David Scott, 2019-06-11

Accommodating the diversity of learners in mainstream schooling and providing high quality education for all inclusive education is prioritised at international and European levels as a human rights issue and as a reform strategy which tackles inequalities and promotes social cohesion within both schools and wider society. This book advances critical realist ideas in empirical research in order to close the theory practice gap and shift the emphasis from epistemology to ontology with regard to teachers empowerment to provide inclusive education. With a focus on the school context rather than the agency of the individual teacher the authors use empirical data from case studies to demonstrate teachers disempowerment as real and rooted in features of reality. Offering a unified critical realist model the book challenges taken for granted ideas and practices concerning the empowerment of teachers in inclusive education and seeks to set the ground for a more holistic and inclusive educational change.

Journal of American Indian Education ,2015 The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells,2005 Journal of Social Studies Research ,2012 Toward Better Early Childhood Education Linda Cummings Cunningham,2007 The Journal of Environment & Development ,2005 The Politics of Structural Choice of the Commission for Environmental Cooperation Linda J. Allen,2005 For over a century states have been crafting international institutions to address a wide range of environmental problems but the effectiveness of these institutions has been limited Theories of international relations have historically guided research on these institutions but this scholarship has failed to provide adequate insights into why states have not been able to design effective institutions This study utilizes an alternative approach a theory of domestic politics in particular the positive theory of public bureaucracies to analyze the design of these institutions The main thesis of this study is that the design of international environmental institutions reflects efforts of political actors to overcome problems of expertise political uncertainty and political compromise while they seek to achieve their policy goals within a particular political arena rather than efforts by states to rationally pursue mutually beneficial joint gains or a desire of a powerful hegemon to cater to its own self interest To test this thesis this study examines the institutional choices associated with the creation of the North American Commission for Environmental Cooperation CEC This research consists of a single case study that draws on multiple sources of qualitative and quantitative data collected from documentation archival records interviews written surveys and direct observation and analyzed using counterfactuals and process tracing for qualitative data and descriptive statistics for quantitative data The findings of this research indicate that the positive theory of public bureaucracies has greater explanatory power for the institutional design of the CEC than rival theories hegemonic stability and functionalist theories Overall this research suggests that this theory of domestic politics offers a potentially useful theoretical approach for understanding the institutional design of international institutions
