Teaching Strategies Donald C. Orlich, 1998

Constructivist Strategy Questioned. Problem-based, Experiential and Inquiry-based teaching Paulette Reefer, 2016-11-08 Essay from the year 2015 in the subject Pedagogy The Teacher Educational Leadership grade B The University of Liverpool course EdD Education language English abstract The constructivist learning theory based on the psychological theory of the active construction of knowledge by the learner has been bandied by educators and researchers for several decades for use in the classroom as more successful than the traditional transmission model of teaching in virtually every discipline Often the discourse of the usefulness of the constructivist approach in pedagogy has been pedalled to both the practicing and neophytes teachers and lecturers as undisputed and capable of astounding results Teachers and lecturers in response often have simply incorporated some group work and project work in their courses and rationalised that this may be sufficient inclusion of a student centred approach without any greater understanding of what a constructivist approach to teaching or lecturing comprises. Granted that the majority of teachers are given inadequate training for the use of constructivist approaches they have merely paid lip service to its use and have not in the majority of cases demonstrated the art of engaging with the constructivist approach to the maximum potential. A major problem with the implementation of constructivist approaches is the inadequate training and comprehension of constructivist strategies to be employed in subject specific domains. This paper offers an examination of the literature from the perspective of the problem of unsatisfactory implementation of constructivist strategies in the classroom.

Counseling Strategies for Loss and Grief Keren M.

Humphrey, 2009. This practice oriented book describes a range of effective counseling strategies appropriate for the treatment of diverse loss and grief issues commonly presented in individual family and group psychotherapy settings. Based on contemporary understandings of the nature of personal and interpersonal loss and the ways in which people integrate loss and grief into their lives, this innovative book focuses on tailoring interventions to the uniqueness of the griever's experience. In Part 1, Dr Humphrey discusses a variety of death and non-death related loss and grief experiences, offers conceptualization guidelines, outlines selected psychosocial factors, and describes intervention based on two contemporary grief models. Part 2 provides detailed therapeutic strategies organized according to focus or theoretical origins, along with suggestions for implementation and customization to client uniqueness. Specific chapters include cognitive behavioral and constructivist strategies, emotion focused strategies, narrative therapy, solution focused therapy, and adjunctive activities. The final chapter focuses on counselor roles and recommended professional and personal practices. Keren M. Humphrey, EdD, NCC, LPC, LCPC has more than 25 years experience in the helping professions as a parish minister, probation officer, professional counselor, and counselor educator. Dr Humphrey is CEO of 4 Directions Consulting, Rockwall, TX.
