De Economist Volume 42:

The Endogenization of Government Behaviour in Macroeconomic Models Bern C.J. van Velthoven, 2012-12-06 In chapter 2 we concluded that the present public choice and marxist approaches to the study of political processes as far as relevant for the analysis of economic policy making are unsatisfactory for reasons of incoherency insufficient empirical support and lack of specificity It was suggested that a different approach to the subject might be fruitful To that purpose we now turn our attention to the so called interest function approach to the study of politico economic phenomena that has been developed by Van Winden 1983 See also Van Winden 1987 Van Velthoven and Van Winden 1986 Without paying too much attention to the specific conduct of and intricate relationships between voters politicians bureaucrats and interest groups the interest function approach intends to combine valuable elements of the marxist and public choice analyses According to Van Winden 1983 p 12 this means that in studying the interaction between state and private sector attention should be paid to social classes and the impact of class power relationships on political and economic processes the way that social power structures involving the real control over state activities are maintained or altered the relative autonomy of political processes involving the state and its consequences for as well as its dependence on economic processes individual motivations the possibility of mathematical formalization Section 3 2 will give a general introduction to the concepts and the line of argument of the interest function approach

Regulating Competition Susanna Fellman,Martin Shanahan,2015-12-22 Cartels trusts and agreements to reduce competition between firms have existed for centuries but became particularly prevalent toward the end of the 19th century In the mid 20th century governments began to use so called cartel registers to monitor and regulate their behaviour This book provides cases studies from more than a dozen countries to examine the emergence application and eventual decline of this form of regulation Beginning with a comparison of the attitudes to regulation that led to monitoring rather than prohibiting cartels this book examines the international studies on cartels undertaken by the League of Nations before World War II This is followed by a series of studies on the context of the registers including the international context of the European Union and the importance of lobby groups in shaping regulatory outcomes using Finland as an example Section two provides a broad international comparison of several countries registers with individual studies on Norway Australia Japan Germany Sweden and the Netherlands After examining the impact of registration on business behaviour in the insurance industry this book concludes with an overview of the lessons to be learnt from 20th century efforts to regulate competition With a foreword by Harm Schroter this book outlines the rise and fall of a system that allowed nations to tailor their approach to regulating competition to their individual circumstances whilst also responding to the pressures of globalisation that emerged after the Second World War This book is suitable for those who are interested in and study economic history international economics and business history Chapter 10 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4 0 license
