Law and Gender in Modern Ireland Lynsey Black, Peter Dunne, 2019-02-21 Law and Gender in Modern Ireland Critique and Reform is the first generalist text to tackle the intersection of law and gender in this jurisdiction for over two decades As such it could hardly have come at a more opportune moment The topic of law and gender perhaps more so than at any other time in Irish history has assumed a dominant place in political and academic debate Among scholars and policy makers alike the regulation of gendered bodies and the legal status of sexual and gendered identities is now a highly visible fault line in public discourse Debates over reproductive justice exemplified by the recent referendum to remove the 8th Amendment increased rights for lesbian gay bisexual and transgender persons including the public sanctioned introduction of same sex marriage and the historic mistreatment of women and young girls have re shaped Irish public and political life and encouraged Irish society to re examine long unchallenged gender norms While many traditional flashpoints remain such as abortion and prostitution sex work there are also new questions including surrogacy and the gendered experience of asylum frameworks which have emerged As policy makers seek to enact reforms they face a population with increasingly polarised perceptions of gender and a legal structure ill equipped for modern realities This edited volume directly addresses modern Irish debates on law and gender Providing an overview of the existing rules and standards as well as exploring possible options for reform the collection stands as an important statement on the law in this jurisdiction and as an invaluable resource for pursuing gendered social change While the edited collection applies a doctrinal methodology to explain current statutes case law and administrative practices the contributors also invoke critical gender queer and race perspectives to identify and problematise existing and potential challenges This edited collection is essential reading for all who are interested in law gender and processes of social change in modern Ireland

Human Rights and Gender Based Violence in Asia Fozia Nazir Lone, Guobin Zhu, Anthony Carty, 2025-11-24 This edited book adopts a prescriptive and culturally relative narrative to understand and critique human rights within Asia Simultaneously it aims to understand how human rights especially such as women's rights are practised and protected by Asian nations The book evaluates the realisation of Eurocentric human rights by Asian states in line with their domestic needs and priorities It delineates the alien nature of western standards of human rights for Asia Contributors focus on varied geographical contexts including South Asia China and Vietnam The chapters also cover the protection of women's rights in conflict zones in Myanmar Kashmir and Afghanistan as well as regional human rights mechanisms Covering a diverse region this book will be of interest to researchers and students of international human rights feminism and gender studies particularly in the Asian context

The Policy Process in the Modern State Michael James Hill, 2001 Introduction to the policy process and the structure of power in society

Bargaining for Women's Rights Alice J. Kang, 2015-06-30 Gender relations in Muslim majority countries have been subject to intense debate in recent decades In some cases Muslim women have fought for and won new rights to political participation reproductive health and education In others their agendas have been stymied Yet missing from this discussion until now has been a systematic examination of how civil society groups mobilize to promote women's rights and how multiple components of the state negotiate such legislation In Bargaining for Women's Rights Alice J Kang argues that reform is more likely to happen when the struggle arises from within Focusing on how a law on gender quotas and a United Nations treaty on ending discrimination against women passed in Niger while family law reform and an African Union protocol on women's rights did not Kang shows how local women's associations are uniquely positioned to translate global concepts of democracy and human rights into concrete policy proposals And yet drawing on numerous interviews with women's rights activists as well as Islamists and politicians she reveals that the former are not the only ones who care about the regulation of gender relations Providing a solid analytic framework for understanding conflict over women's rights policies without stereotyping Muslims Bargaining for Women's Rights demonstrates that contrary to conventional wisdom Islam does not have a uniformly negative effect on the prospects of such legislation

The Potentiality of 'developmental States' in Africa Pamela Mbabazi, Ian Taylor, 2005 The Potentiality of Developmental States in Africa investigates the potential role of the state in Africa in promoting development in this era of globalisation Using Botswana and Uganda as case studies the volume argues that it is not the amount of state involvement in the economy that matters but the quality This set of original studies compares and contrasts issues that distinguish the two countries development record and style of activity of the state in promoting development Written by a collection of researchers drawn mainly from Botswana and Uganda this book argues that there are some elements of the developmental state model in both countries These elements have arguably contributed to some of the relative successes in the two states Contextualising the case studies within the history and political economy of the respective countries the book is a valuable addition to the on going debate on the role nature and character of states in Africa A must read for students researchers politicians and development practitioners Book jacket
