

Colour

Colour is often one of the most exciting components of a painting, but what exactly is it? Understanding the basic principles of colour theory helps you analyse how artists exploit and manipulate it to their work. They use colour together with composition, perspective, and light and shade to strengthen the impact of the artwork itself.

Mixing and comparing colours

The spectrum of light makes colour visible. Light from a source of different angles, either pure and homogeneous or from a mixture of different colours. The range of wavelengths perceived can be related to the spectrum: the shorter the wavelength, the more violet and the longer the wavelength, the more red. The spectrum of light is divided into primary, secondary and tertiary colours. The spectrum of light is divided into primary, secondary and tertiary colours. The spectrum of light is divided into primary, secondary and tertiary colours.

The colour wheel

From understanding and using the colour wheel, you can learn how to mix and use colour. The colour wheel is a circular diagram that shows the relationships between the primary and secondary colours. It is a useful tool for artists to understand how colours interact and how to mix them to create new shades.
