customer loyalty with the characteristics of E Business show how companies can build loyalty with customer relationship management 1 3 Relevance of the Topic 1 3 1 Theoretical Relevance Concerning E Business there exists plenty of literature mainly from a technical point of view The drawback is that although loyal

Customer Card as a Tool for CRM in the German Textile Industry Claus Hombrecher,2019-02-08 Bachelor Thesis from the year 2016 in the subject Business economics General grade 2.0 University of Applied Sciences Essen language English abstract This thesis analyses the topic customer card in the context of CRM but with specific reference to the German Textile Industry According to history Henry Ford mentioned with the introduction of the Modell T in 1908 that every customer could choose the colour of the car by himself as long as the chosen colour was black He did that because black was easy to work with Because of the non existing competition during this time companies did not have to operate towards consumer needs and were able to focus on the goods they produced Mass marketing was developed to reach out for as many customers as possible to sell the maximum amount of goods In the late 1960s the quality of products became similar which changed the competitive situation Companies were forced to differentiate from each other by creating customer benefits Because of the rising variety consumers started asking for products fitting their needs New technology led to machines that were able to produce different types of products and mass customizing was born To be able to individualize a product a lot of information concerning the customer needs to be collected This process is called customer integration Mass customizing has a one way communication from consumer to company To create a dialog relationship marketing was developed The aim was to build a long term relationship between company and customer so that both sides generate a benefit A rising profitability and a longer business relation were responsible for higher profits Research led to the result that it is about seven times cheaper to keep a customer than generating new ones According to further results an increase of 5% in customer relationship can enable a profit increase between 20% and 120% by cross and up selling actions Customer Relationship Management CRM describes this relationship process between a company and its customers During the time of the relationship customers are supposed to be bound to the company for as long as possible so that they will not migrate to a competitor Different CRM tools have been developed to achieve that goal A common one is the customer card program In Germany there are approximately up to 200 million customer cards in use at the moment

Selection of CRM software for the event sector Thomas

Punzel,2011-03-22 Master s Thesis from the year 2009 in the subject Business economics Offline Marketing and Online Marketing grade A 1 5 University of Birmingham University College Birmingham language English abstract This study was undertaken to recommend a suitable customer relationship management CRM software for the German event agency XYZ For this reason three different CRM software products were evaluated Four research objectives were established to achieve the aim They were the principles of customer relationship management the benefits and problems connected with the implementation of CRM the importance of measures to get loyal customers and a comparison of different software products with regard to different criteria Using the case study strategy including secondary research methods the researcher was able to answer the research objectives and the aim The main sources used in this investigation were secondary sources due to the large number of information available in these sources Prior the development of an assessment schematic was necessary to evaluate the credibility of these sources Personal experience with CRM the current importance of this topic and the gap in the event based literature motivated the researcher to undertake this study The findings indicated that the competitive environment in which small and medium enterprises operate make it necessary to implement a good working CRM system to identify potential customers who might become loyal Indeed a universal definition of terms such as CRM customer satisfaction and loyalty is missing or the terms are not clearly defined Findings also revealed that there is still a gap in literature concerning CRM within the event industry especially within event management companies The number of data concerning aspects such as competition and customer orientation regarding to event management companies is also rare or missing Beside these limitations research indicates that the market of CRM software products is growing Especially web based CRM solutions such as on demand software have become more popular in the last few years due to the mostly unproblematic implementation and the lower price of these products compared to traditional software packages

Recommendations for further research include a deeper analysis of CRM within the events industry and a clear definition of terms which are connected with CRM such as customer satisfaction and customer loyalty More information on customer orientation customer loyalty and competitiveness especially within event management companies would help to establish a more precise catalogue of software selection criteria
