

Convergence and Divergence: Developing a Semiglobal Marketing Strategy

Susan P. Douglas and C. Samuel Craig

ABSTRACT

Many markets are converging, as communications and logistic networks become more integrated and firms from all parts of the world are expanding operations on a global scale. At the same time, other markets are becoming more diverse, and marketers are increasingly encountering economic and cultural heterogeneity. The authors examine the implications of these trends and the extent to which they necessitate rethinking and refocusing global marketing strategy. First, they examine the perspective of global marketing strategy as an evolutionary process. Next, they divide markets into five major spheres, examining the economic and cultural diversity of markets in each. Next, they discuss the resultant need to develop and implement different strategies for markets in each of these spheres. Some conclusions are drawn relating to the difficulties involved in developing a coherent strategy in international markets. The authors advocate developing a semiglobal marketing strategy, which involves following different directions in different parts of the world, resulting in greater autonomy at the local level.

Keywords: global marketing strategy, emerging markets, economic and cultural diversity, country groupings

Globalization is widely viewed as one of, if not the, dominant imperative driving business strategy in the twenty-first century. As markets become increasingly integrated, more firms from all parts of the world are expanding operations on a global scale (Ghemawat 2007, 2010; Gupta, Govindarajan, and Wang 2008; Peng 2009). Furthermore, this trend is not confined to large multinational corporations (MNCs) but includes firms of all sizes, from medium-sized firms to entrepreneurial companies that can identify and satisfy needs of niche markets throughout the world (Knight and Cavusgil 2009). In the past, the internationalization trend was largely confined to firms from highly developed countries of the “industrial triad” (i.e., the United States, Europe, and Japan) with attention focused on expansion in these areas. However, this emphasis has changed dramatically in recent years.

The plateauing of growth in the developed world has resulted in a costly battle for market share. Driven by a growth imperative and faced with slackening demand in traditional markets, firms have been compelled to increase promotional expenses and innovate (e.g., developing new products or product variants) to maintain market position. As a result, many firms are looking for new growth opportunities outside the developed world. These include both large emerging markets, such as India, China, and Brazil (Wilson and Purushothaman 2003), and second-tier emerging markets (referred to as the Next 11), such as Indonesia, Turkey, Egypt, Nigeria, Mexico, the Philippines and Vietnam—all of which have most controversial issues Numerous studies have put their focus on the consequences of globalization on our lives However no agreement yet exists among scholars Guillen 2001 Speaking of globalization means understanding all its diverse dimensions and actors as well as discussing their transformative power In his recent book From Walmart to Al Qaeda Murillo 2015 offers a multidisciplinary approach considering all the structural elements such as cultural technological economic financial political and institutional ones that shape and at the same time are shaped by globalization By discussing the concept of globalization and its impact on each dimension various approaches are used for diagnosing the direction of change and perils as well as benefits In addition to that Murillo 2015 xiii suggests that the very complexity and scope of globalization means any discussion requires examination of the various schools of thought theories and approaches in order to gain a better understanding of the world Even though institutional theory is closely linked to the process of globalization and has been widely applied to diverse fields when analyzing the consequences of globalization this approach remains widely untouched in Murillo s 2015 book Institutional theory has gained significant importance in sociological research and has become a leading theoretical foundation as there is an increased importance of understanding that countries differ in terms of institutions Diehl and McFarland 2010 1740 1741 As institutions are all around us Cornelissen Durand Fiss and Vaara 2015 10 they do not only form a One World Emerging? Alex Inkeles,1998-03-05 A persistent 21st century fear image is of major civilizations battling in Armageddon But doom and gloom foresayers fail to consider evolutionary global cultural changes tending toward assimilation rather than separation Culture scholar Alex Inkeles focuses on this process of convergence and illustrates the manner and degree of convergence across national boundaries
