Laurence D. Steinberg, 2008 Evaluation of Juveniles' Competence to Stand Trial Ivan Kruh, Thomas Grisso, 2008-12-25 Forensic mental health assessment FMHA has grown into a specialization informed by research and professional guidelines This series presents up to date information on the most important and frequently conducted forms of FMHA The 19 topical volumes address best approaches to practice for particular types of evaluation in the criminal civil and juvenile family areas Each volume contains a thorough discussion of the relevant legal and psychological concepts followed by a step by step description of the assessment process from preparing for the evaluation to writing the report and testifying in court Volumes include the following helpful features Boxes that zero in on important information for use in evaluations Tips for best practice and cautions against common pitfalls Highlighting of relevant case law and statutes Separate list of assessment tools for easy reference Helpful glossary of key terms for the particular topic In making recommendations for best practice authors consider empirical support legal relevance and consistency with ethical and professional standards These volumes offer invaluable guidance for anyone involved in conducting or using forensic evaluations Biosocial Theories of Crime Kevin M. Beaver, 2017-07-05 Biosocial criminology is an emerging perspective that highlights the interdependence between genetic and environmental factors in the etiology of antisocial behaviors However given that biosocial criminology has only recently gained traction among criminologists there has not been any attempt to compile some of the classic articles on this topic Beaver and Walsh's edited volume addresses this gap in the literature by identifying some of the most influential biosocial criminological articles and including them in a single resource The articles covered in this volume examine the connection between genetics and crime evolutionary psychology and crime and neuroscience and crime This volume will be a valuable resource for anyone interested in understanding the causes of crime from a biosocial criminological perspective
