If physical properties of substances that can be observed without changing the identity of the substance, then the properties of an object can be observed. For example, you can observe an object's color, shape, size, or weight. In general, the properties of an object are determined by the properties of the particles that compose it.

Many of the physical properties of materials that make up objects can be observed. These properties include density, hardness, magnetism, and the ability to conduct heat and electricity.

Some physical properties depend on how much of a material you have. In other words, a large amount of a material may have different properties than a smaller amount of the material.
