choose to buy which airline's air ticket and what day and time is the right air ticket prebooking purchase decision right time choice or enrolling which school to be chosen course to study decision e.g. how long time is needed to be chosen which school is the most suitable to provide the most suitable courses studying choice change purchase warm clothes to wear in winter when is the suitable time to choose to buy the cheaper warm clothes to prepare to wear in winter e.g. Jan to Mar April to June July to Aug month when is the most suitable time to buy another new house to live when the property consumer buyer has lived present house for long time e.g. three years or more All of these issues will include time factor to influence the consumer feels when he/she ought choose to buy the kind of product or consume the kind of service However the other factors will also include to influence his/her decision e.g. family friend relationship factor advertising factor social status factor cultural difference factor personal psychological need level or satisfactory level factor young or old age factor income level factor economic environment factor material enjoyable need factor etc factors Inside Consumption S.

Ratneshwar, David Glen Mick, 2005-11-16 Following on from The Why of Consumption this book examines motivational factors in diverse consumption behaviours In a world where consumption has become the defining phenomenon of human life and society it addresses the effects of critical life events on consumption motives and the sociological and intergenerational influences on consumer motives and preferences Its cross disciplinary approach brings together some of the leading scholars from diverse subject areas to examine the central question about consumption why This is a unique and invaluable contribution to the area and an essential asset for all those involved in researching teaching or studying consumption and consumer behaviour

How Consumers Make Consumption Choice Johnny Ch Lok, 2019-01-23 Chapter Two Behavioral economy explains how and why consumer choice Can apply behavioral economy method to explain how and why customer individual will decide every decisional choice It is one fun psychological and micro economic question to research every consumer individual behavior Why does he/she choose to buy the product or consume the service Does he/she compare the economic benefit or opportunity cost before he/she choose to buy the product or consume the service What factors persuade or attract the consumer to make the final consumption decision All these questions which seem product manufacturers or product sellers or service providers can attempt to apply behavioral economy theory to predict consumer behaviors more easily in order to avoid the loss chance to choose to buy their products or consume their service more easily in every consumer individual choice decision making process Traditional economy can be predominated by psychology but it can also include elements of philosophy sociology and even mathematics or econometrics When any product manufacturers or sellers or service providers expect to predict consumer market how will change to influence consumer individual consumption effort Analysis is necessary it is made possible a better understanding of the human brain and of the fundamentals on which it builds decision making However they also need to make any hypotheses of consumption environment to attempt to find what factors will influence future individual customer behavioral changes to make decision making whether how any why he she chooses to buy the product or consume the service So the research methodology was concentrate on quality method more than quantity method when any product manufacturer or service provider expects to predict future consumer behavioral how and why changes more easily The research processing includes data collected from the global business similar product seller market The data can concern How and why the environmental factors had influenced many consumers make emotional reponses of individuals in economical decision making to choose the purchase any similar brand product consumers shopping experiences will help the present product manufacturers to predict whether how and why what factors will influence the similar product consumers to choose to buy its products in future consumption environment more easily It is any product manufacturers or sellers or service providers whose final aim to achieve any behavioral economic research concerns consumer behavioral researchs According to standard economic model consumers are making decisions in the comprehensive economic or consumption environment they know their preferences their choices are always rational more than not rational So rational mind will influence their consumption choice behaviors to make the most reasonable consumption decision when they feel or believe their choice to buy the product or consume the service which is the most reasonable They will compare different brands of products values to evaluate whether which brands can bring the largest economic benefit to avoid the loss to use after they choose to buy the product to use

The Why of Consumption Cynthia Huffman, David Glen Mick, S. Ratneshwar, 2003-09-02 This book brings together an international collection of authors from a variety of disciplines who offer new and critical perspectives summarize key findings and provide important theoretical frameworks to guide the reader through the why of consumption The book answers questions such as What is the nature of motives goals and desires that prompt consumption behaviours Why do consumers buy and consume particular products brands and services from the multitude of alternatives afforded by their environments How do consumers think and feel about their cravings Unique in focus and with multifaceted approach which anyone interested in consumption and consumer research will find fascinating this topical book provides an excellent overview of current research and imparts key insights to illuminate the subject for both academics and practitioners alike How Behavioral Time Method Explains and Predicts Johnny Ch LOK,2019-05-17 It brings this question How product packing and placement as in store factors and recognition preferences and choice task as out of store factors which will influence the supermarket store consumer individual decision making process through visual attention In split second decision making the ability to recognize and comprehend a brand of supermarket store product can significantly impact preferences Hence how the supermarket store consumer s eye truly sees what whom mind is prepared to influence how much consumption desire to choose to buy the brand s product in short tim decision making process when he she stays in the shelf location it has less than ten or more than ten different kinds of brands products or foods to let the visitor to choose in the supermarket or store Brand owners and product developers will feel responsibilities to overcome promotion or advertising or communicaton challenge in order to let consumers to know their products are launched on the market However it is not until the product reaches the supermarket shelf that has good quality to the effort is judged whether it has how much sale number every day in the supermarket The judges are the consumers themselves how to make decision quickly through the personal time pressure environment with minor package information processing in the supermarket What does it take to be consider an option to influence the consumers minds on visual attention in point of purchase decision making The supermarket s in store activities and the consumer personal out of store activities will influence how his her visual attention to the brand of products in the supermarket store any shelf locations when he she is walking to pass any shelf locations So it seems that any supermarkets or stores brands of products sale number it has relation to every supermarket or store visitors visual attention throughout the point to point shelf to shelf decision making process in the supermarkets stores So how much does the supermarket s visitors time spending to obtain attention to the brand of produc it will have possible to influence the brand of any products sale number in the supermarket store Hence in this limited timeframe the consumer enters a decision making process that is in itself influenced by in store and out of store both factors I shall explain what is supermarket store space quality factor e g top level versus floor level to different shelf variable height weigh or shelf space location factor as well as the product price elasticity and price quality relationship to the brand of products both factors to influence every consumer decision making in supermarket store The in store factor is more influential factor to compare out of store factor to influence consumers decision in supermarket For example where the shampoo brand products are locating to be put on the shelf it can influence the point to point behavior of shampoo product habitual buyers If the buyer habitually chooses the shampoo brand products in the shelf location Also if all of the shampoo brand products are moved to another shelf locations to display its different kinds of shampoo products to cause the habitual buyer needs to spend much extra time to find where the another new shelf location is displaying the brand s shampoo products Understanding How Consumer Behavior Changes Johnny Ch Lok,2020-09-19 In consumption psychological view point the current approach is the term dialectics considers all forms of human behavior thus the current approach to the study of consumer divided into four approaches materialism approach implies that consumer behavior is shaped by the material environment e g money possessions etc change approach means consumer behavior is dynamic in nature it is always in a process of continuous motion transformation and change Totality means consumption behavior is interconnected with other forms of human contradiction means views changes in consumer behavior as arising from their internal contradictions like moods emoting etc The approach studies the consumer as a complex total whole and views consumer purchase as well as consumption processes The current approach to studying consumer behavior uses both the quantitative as well as qualitative approaches There are three broad research perspectives in consumer behavior they are as follows Decision making perspective the experiment perspective and behavioral influence perspective According to decision making perspective the buying process is a sequential in nature with the consumer perceiving that there exists a problem and that moving across a series of logical and rational steps to solve the problem stages being problem recognition information search evaluation of alternatives purchase decision and past purchase behavior it emphasizes rational logical and cognitive approach to consumer decision making and purchase process The experiential perspective believes that not all buying may be rational and logical in some cases buying results are from a consumers desire for fun and fantasy pleasures emotions and moods The perspective emphasizes that consumers are feelers as well as thinkers The behavioral influence perspective holds that forces in the environment stimulate a consumer to make purchases without developing beliefs and attitudes about the product In general quantitative research is used by the positivists and qualitative research is used by interpretivists How to use quantitative research in consumer behavior It comprises i research techniques that are used to gather quantitative data over large samples randomly and ii statistical tools and techniques e g survey observation and experiments techniques Thus type of research is descriptive in nature It is primarily used by the positivists when studying consumer behavior with a focus on prediction of consumer behavior and techniques are also used by dialectics approach How to use qualitative research in consumer behavior It comprises i research techniques that are used to gather quantitative data over small samples techniques e g depth interviews focus group of study is subjective in nature The focus is on understanding consumption behavior and consumption pattern the objective is to gain an understanding of consumer behavior and the causes marketing situations are unique and hence the finding can t be generalized to marketing situations It is primarily used by the interpretivists when studying consumer behavior However the qualitative techniques are also used by dialectics approach Today both approaches and are used to study consumer behavior In some causes qualitative research may act as an indicator to qualitative research through case studies and other qualitative measures Qualitative research is very often a prelude to quantitative research are used to prepares scales for surveys and experiments Brand image attention of behavioral consumption of prediction method
