

1. The first step is to identify the variables involved in the problem. In this case, the variables are the number of hours worked (H) and the number of units produced (U). The relationship between these two variables is given by the production function:

$$U = 100H - 0.5H^2$$

2. The next step is to find the maximum value of the production function. To do this, we need to find the value of H that maximizes U. This can be done by taking the derivative of U with respect to H and setting it equal to zero:

$$\frac{dU}{dH} = 100 - H = 0$$

3. Solving for H, we find that the maximum value of U occurs when H = 100. This means that the worker should work 100 hours to maximize the number of units produced.

4. The final step is to find the maximum value of U. Substituting H = 100 into the production function, we find that the maximum value of U is 5000 units.
