CONSTRAINING METAPHOR AND METONYMY IN LANGUAGE AND DEPICTION: A COGNITIVE SEMIOTICS APPROACH

Abstract. In cognitive semiotics, metaphor and metonymy are crucially treated as special forms of sign use. In contrast, researchers in cognitive linguistics have extended the scope of metaphor and metonymy far beyond the traditional understanding of these semiotic figures based on, respectively, iconicity and contiguity into purely mental processes. I argue that this has led to unbounded over-extension, and general confusion about what metaphor and metonymy actually are, and thus on how to be able to reliably identify them in language and other semiotic systems like gesture and depiction. There is therefore an urgent need to constrain the concepts of metaphor and metonymy to more reasonable proportions, and in this article I propose such a more constrained approach, using the Motivation & Sedimentation Model (MSM) of meaning-making. For the purpose, I spell out an integrated definition of metaphor and metonymy along traditional lines, but not limiting them to language. I illustrate the applicability of this definition by offering analyses of political cartoons, showing how the two semiotic figures interact in complex ways, sometimes allowing for different interpretations.

Keywords: Motivation & Sedimentation Model, iconicity, contiguity, Conceptual Metaphor Theory, political art, Roman Jakobson.

1. Introduction

The Motivation & Sedimentation Model (hence, MSM) was developed within the field of cognitive semiotics (e.g., Zlatev, 2015) for the purpose of formulating novel analyses of controversial phenomena such as language norms (Zlatev & Blomberg, 2019) and linguistic relativity (Blomberg & Zlatev, 2021). In short, MSM focuses on the interactions between, on the one hand, a non-linguistic, pre-conventional Embodied level of meaning, and on the other hand, a conventionalized Sedimented level, resulting in creative, expressive meaning-making on a third, Situated level of commu-

Metaphor and Metonymy in Comparison and Contrast René Dirven, Ralf Pörings, 2003 The book elaborates one of Roman Jakobson's many brilliant ideas i.e. his insight that the two cognitive strategies of the metaphoric and the metonymic are the end points on a continuum of conceptualization processes This elaboration is achieved on the background of Lakoff and Johnson's twodomain approach i.e. the mapping of a source onto a target domain of conceptualization Further approaches dwell on different stretches of this metaphor metonymy continuum Still other papers probe into the specialized conceptual division of labor associated with both modes of thought Two new breakthroughs in the cognitive linguistics approach to metaphor and metonymy have recently been developed one is the three domain approach which concentrates on the new blends that become possible after the integration or the blending of source and target domain elements the other is the approach in terms of primary scenes and subscenes which often determine the way source and target domains interact

Metaphors of ANGER across Languages: Universality and Variation Zoltan Kövecses, Réka Benczes, Veronika Szelid, 2024-11-04 Anger is one of the basic emotions of human emotional experience informing and guiding many of our choices and actions Although it has received considerable scholarly attention in a number of disciplines including linguistics a basic question has still remained unresolved why do variations in the folk model of anger exist across languages if it is indeed a basic emotion rooted in largely universal bodily experience By drawing on a wide selection of comparable linguistic data from dozens of languages including a number of less researched languages this volume provides the most comprehensive account of what is universal and what is variable in the folk model of anger and why It also investigates the role that metonymies might play in the emergence of anger related metaphors and in what ways context influences or shapes anger metaphors and thereby the resulting folk model of anger No such volume exists in the cognitive linguistic literature on anger or on emotions for that matter The book is thus an essential contribution to the study of anger and will serve as basic reading for any researcher interested in how the conceptualization of anger is constructed via the interplay of bodily experience language and the larger cultural context Metaphor and Metonymy at the Crossroads

Antonio Barcelona,2003 Metaphor and Metonymy at the Crossroads is a collection of essays most of them written from a cognitive linguistics standpoint by leading specialists in the fields of conceptual metaphor and metonymy and conceptual integration blending The book has two main goals One of them is to discuss in new provocative ways the nature of these conceptual mappings in English and their interaction The other goal is to explore by means of several detailed case studies the central role of these mappings in English The studies are thus concerned with the operation of metaphor and metonymy in discourse including literary discourse or with the effect of metaphorical and or metonymic mappings on some aspects of linguistic structure be it polysemy or grammar The book is of interest to students and researchers in English and linguistics English literature cognitive psychology and cognitive science Metaphor, Metonymy, and Experientialist Philosophy

concomitances as well as mark their diversifying paths The aim is to bring about and make apparent the many connections

among assumingly different trends stemming from CMT Whereas discrepancies between communicative and conceptual perspectives might seem irredeemable the book emphasizes and claims that the background framework of CMT provides a solid foundation for collaboration and mutual influence Consequently the analysis of metaphor usage in context may provide insights for cognitive modelling proposals The analysis of cognitive configuration of conceptual domains may in turn illuminate our understanding of communicative decisions in discourse The integration of multimodal metaphor analysis puts forward the idea that diverse modal manifestations of metaphor reveal the symbiosis between communicative and cognitive stances The various subject areas and methodologies illuminate the scene of current research in the field The poignant contributions open far reaching avenues into the realm of human thought and discourse
