

How does feminist criticism open up meaning in "Mrs Midas." Write an analysis of the poem including reference to the critical anthology to support your interpretation. "Mrs Midas" is a revisionism version from the female perspective of King Midas' story, an ancient Greek myth about a man who could turn everything to gold with a touch. This poem explores the sadness Mrs Midas feels in regards to not being able to feel the touch of her husband to the anguish, annoyance and disgust she has for him about his greediness. This poem is very interesting for feminist critics as there are both arguments for Mrs Midas being a strong willed person that does not let him ruin her life as she runs away and lives without him. However there is another reading that her husband controls her emotion and all she longs for is a loving husband. Right from the beginning the voice is of Mrs Midas who retells the story from her point of view. This would interest feminist critics as in literature women are sometimes voiceless or only heard behind the men however it is clear Mrs Midas has the control and is telling her story; through her humour and metaphor we are able to understand the breakdown of her marriage as well as the idea that "wealth isn't everything" in a different way that King Midas' story told this idea.

Secondly, it may be seen that Mrs Midas is challenging society's demand of "feminine behavior" as Simone de Beauvoir would put it as it she "poured a glass of wine this action shows a lack of interest in the idea that women are not meant to be drinkers. The way the poem is introduced so casually "it was late September. I'd just poured a glass of wine..." gives the impression that Mrs Midas is a woman who is not bound by traditional gender roles and is willing to challenge them. This is a key theme in feminist criticism, the idea that women should not be limited by societal expectations and should have the freedom to live their lives as they see fit. The poem's casual introduction of the wine-pouring scene suggests that Mrs Midas is a woman who is confident and self-assured, and who is not afraid to break the rules.

The poem's use of metaphor is another key element of its feminist critique. Mrs Midas's husband is compared to a "golden touch" which is a reference to the myth of King Midas. This metaphor suggests that her husband is greedy and obsessed with wealth, and that his actions are destructive to their relationship. The poem's use of metaphor is a key element of its feminist critique, as it allows Mrs Midas to express her feelings in a way that is both powerful and subtle. The metaphor of the "golden touch" is a key element of the poem's feminist critique, as it suggests that her husband's greed is a form of emotional abuse that is designed to isolate her from her family and friends.
