Review Chapter 10 and fill in the blanks with the following information. Use your textbook and class notes to complete the following.

Form of Government	Description of Characteristics of Form
Autocracy
	In an autocracy, political power rests with one person. This person is often the ruler. The ruler has absolute power.
Monarchy	A monarch is the ruler of a country. The monarch is usually a member of the royal family.
Democracy	In a democracy, the people elect their representatives. The representatives make the laws.
Republic	A republic is a form of government in which the country is considered a public matter, not the private concern of the rulers. The rulers are elected by the people.
Constitutional Monarchy	A constitutional monarchy is a form of government in which a monarch acts as a head of state within the limits of a constitution. The monarch is usually a member of the royal family.
Federalism	Federalism is a form of government in which the power is divided between a central authority and the constituent units of the federal system.
Unitary System	A unitary system is a form of government in which the central government is the only authority. The local governments are created by the central government.
Bicameralism	Bicameralism is a form of government in which the legislature consists of two chambers. The two chambers are usually the House of Representatives and the Senate.
