Properties of Matter

Properties of Matter

QUESTIONS

Are you able distinguish, how these questions are asked?

- Why something, however, and showing physical properties?
- Why, are something, however, and showing chemical properties?

What are Physical Properties?

Such as the color, the shape, the size, the mass, the volume, the density, the boiling point, the melting point, the refractive index, etc.

If physical properties of a substance are observed without changing the identity of the substance, these are called physical properties. For example, you can observe the color, shape, size, mass, volume, density, boiling point, melting point, refractive index, etc. without changing the identity of the substance.

Many of the physical properties of substances depend on the nature of the substance. These properties include density, boiling point, melting point, and refractive index.

Some physical properties depend on the nature of the substance. For example, the boiling point of water is 100°C at standard pressure. The density of water is 1 g/cm³ at 4°C. The refractive index of water is 1.33. These physical properties are called physical properties. They depend on the nature of the substance. They are not affected by the physical property of the substance.
