Consumer Behaviour Michael R. Solomon, Rosemary Polegato, Judith Lynne Zaichkowsky, 2001 For introductory courses in Consumer Behaviour or Consumer Psychology at colleges and universities Also used in MBA courses Using a lively writing style examples that relate directly to students as consumers and cutting edge research this critical examination of marketing practices explains why people buy things and how products services and consumption activities contribute to the broader social world that consumers experience

Environment, Information and Consumer Behaviour Signe Krarup, Clifford S. Russell, 2005 Over the past decade there has been growing interest in the role of information in the promotion of environmentally friendly behaviour This book examines how and why the provision of such information can affect individual decisions concerning buying or consuming a product or valuing a policy The information can take the form of a product label or a statement in a survey questionnaire and the decision can be what product to buy what food to eat or how to answer a contingent valuation question The chapters in this volume carefully explore the explanations for consumer behaviour in different scenarios where information is provided about the public implications of individual decisions The first set of chapters examines the prospects for eco labelling as a tool of environmental policy from a variety of different perspectives They also look at how this form of information provision compares with more familiar policy instruments in achieving efficiency goals In the second and third sections the focus is on environmental and food labelling in which a combination of private and public motives for purchase decisions is found Finally the role of information in contingent valuation surveys is considered in particular the impact of information and time in altering stated value responses Containing both theoretical and empirical research this original
