A Violent History of Benevolence Chris Chapman, A.J. Withers, 2019-03-14 A Violent History of Benevolence traces how normative histories of liberalism progress and social work enact and obscure systemic violences Chris Chapman and A J Withers explore how normative social work history is structured in such a way that contemporary social workers can know many details about social work s violences without ever imagining that they may also be complicit in these violences Framings of social work history actively create present day political and ethical irresponsibility even among those who imagine themselves to be anti oppressive liberal or radical The authors document many histories usually left out of social work discourse including communities of Black social workers who among other things never removed children from their homes involuntarily the role of early social workers in advancing eugenics and mass confinement and the resonant emergence of colonial education psychiatry and the penitentiary in the same decade Ultimately A Violent History of Benevolence aims to invite contemporary social workers and others to reflect on the complex nature of contemporary social work and specifically on the present day structural violences that social work enacts in the name of benevolence Social Work, Social Justice & Human Rights Colleen Lundy,2011-01-01 The second edition of this popular social work practice text more fully addresses the connection between social justice and human rights Introduction to Social Work in Canada Nicole Ives,Myriam S Denov,Tamara Sussman,2015-01-28 This comprehensive introduction integrates perspectives from English French and Indigenous Canada to provide an inclusive treatment of the history foundational skills and specific fields of social work practice and research Emphasizing diversity and drawing extensively on Canadian statistics and scholarship this is the ideal text for introduction to social work courses Social Resilience and the Urban Migrant Experience Valerie Preston,John Shields,Tara Bedard,2025-12-16 As Canada takes stock of its immigration programs the factors that promote successful settlement have taken centre stage for researchers service providers policymakers and for the migrants themselves Social Resilience and the Urban Migrant Experience explores the conditions and supports that help international migrants thrive not just survive Focusing on resilience chapters examine how immigration status and family dynamics shape migrants agency and their responses to the inevitable challenges of building new lives They draw attention to the issues created by societal constructs while highlighting the resources from social institutions of all types governmental professional educational and faith based Emphasizing the experiences of structurally oppressed migrant groups contributors note the varied ways that capitalism as well as class gender and race can contribute to inequality in settlement practices Directed at a wide audience of community and government practitioners policy experts academics and civil society activists Social Resilience and the Urban Migrant Experience illuminates both the impediments to newcomer integration and the ability of newcomers to engage successfully in adaptation and resistance Religion in the Public Sphere Solange Lefebvre,Lori G. Beaman,2014-03-21 The place of religion in the public realm is the subject of frequent and lively debate in the media among academics and policymakers and within communities With this edited collection Solange Lefebvre and Lori G Beaman bring together a series of case studies of religious groups and practices from all across Canada that re examine and question the classic distinction between the public and private spheres Religion in the Public Sphere explores the public image of religious groups legal issues relating to reasonable accommodations and the role of religion in public services and institutions like health care and education Offering a wide range of contributions from religious studies political science theology and law Religion in the Public Sphere presents emerging new models to explain contemporary relations between religion civil society the private sector family and the state Refugee Resettlement as an Institution Rawan Arar,Molly Fee,Heba Gowayed,Blair Sackett,2026-04-27 This book examines how scholars and policymakers primarily characterize refugee resettlement as a humanitarian solution or a migration pathway While these descriptions may be accurate they are not comprehensive This book examines how such framing influences understandings of resettlement's scope and impact generating conceptual blind spots that limit critical inquiry. By reframing resettlement as an institution embedded in a complex network of actors' relations and practices, the chapters in this book reveal how resettlement is not a passive process. They explore historical and contemporary questions about how resettlement influences refugee-hosting countries in the Global South and its political dimensions as a humanitarian program offered by countries in the Global North. By including the experiences of refugees at various points along the resettlement trajectory, such as those who may never be resettled, the book's chapters demonstrate how refugees actively strategize to become resettlement-able, advocate for others within their networks, or even reject resettlement altogether. Contributions centering perspectives from the Global South expand the discourse around resettlement by examining how it operates from Southern host countries. These dynamics underscore how the specter of resettlement shapes refugee experiences in enduring ways, even when the prospect of being resettled is unattainable. This book is invaluable for students, scholars, researchers, and practitioners in refugee studies, migration studies, human rights, development studies, international relations, humanitarian affairs, political science, and sociology. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Ethnic Racial Studies. La migration forcée au Canada Adèle Garnier, Sarah Dubuc, Christina R.

Clark-Kazak, 2025-11-18 Les migrations forcées ont façonné la création du Canada en tant qu'état colonisateur et de peuplement. Elles constituent une caractéristique déterminante de nos réalités nationales et mondiales contemporaines. De nombreuses personnes au Canada ont une expérience directe ou indirecte de la réinstallation et de la protection des réfugiés, de la traite des personnes et des déplacements causés par le changement climatique. La migration forcée au Canada est une ressource d'envergure dans le domaine en plein essor des études sur les migrations. L'ouvrage s'appuie sur des perspectives disciplinaires multiples. Des auteures et auteurs issus des mondes de la recherche, de la pratique et des savoirs autochtones mettent en lumière les expériences vécues de déplacement et les politiques migratoires tous les paliers municipal, provincial, territorial et fédéral avec une attention particulière portée l'expérience québécoise et aux minorités francophones du Canada. Depuis les premiers déplacements d'Autochtones et le colonialisme de peuplement en passant par l'esclavage des Noirs jusqu'à l'apatridie, la traite des personnes et la migration climatique, les chapitres montrent comment la migration humaine est façonnée par des identités et des structures qui se recoupent. Les discussions sur le handicap, la race, la classe, le genre social et l'identité de genre sont particulièrement novatrices. Située dans le cadre de tendances de normes et de structures internationales plus larges, la fois passées et présentes, la migration forcée au Canada fournit des outils incontournables pour valuer les informations manquant des journalistes, des représentants du gouvernement, des collèges et d'organisations non gouvernementales. L'ouvrage propose également de nouvelles pistes d'enquête de discussion, de recherche et d'action. Ce livre est aussi disponible en anglais. The Canadian Who's who, 1997 Current Law Index, 1985 Guide to Microforms in Print, 1993 Small Press Record of Books in Print Len Fulton, 1994 An Introduction to Social Work Betty J.
