

SMOOL Designstudio

For designer Robert Brummser, handmade sketches are the basis of each design. Sketching stimulates creativity and offers a very quick way to explore design possibilities, study proportions and try out details. By varying the sketches in size, response, perspective and colour, the design opportunities become clear. Sketching and designing in side view requires imagination and knowledge of how to realise in 3D.

For a period of time, SMOOL Designstudio advised in the leading Dutch design magazine Dezeen with a rubric of an ongoing product. With these magazine designs, Robert Brummser showed the vision of today's design by applying his own design ideas. The final and finished side view are made with Adobe Illustrator from 7, 2006.
