Review Chapter 10 and fill in the blanks with the following information. Write your answers in the spaces provided.

Form of Government	Description of Characteristics of Form
Autocracy
	In an autocracy, political power rests with one person. This person is often a monarch, but it could be a military leader or a religious leader.
Monarchy	A monarchy is a form of government in which a single person, the monarch, rules the state. The monarch is usually a member of a royal family and is often hereditary.
Oligarchy	An oligarchy is a form of government in which a small group of people, the oligarchs, rule the state. The oligarchs are often members of a ruling class or a military elite.
Democracy	A democracy is a form of government in which the people rule the state. The people elect their representatives, who then make the laws and policies of the state.
Federalism	Federalism is a form of government in which power is divided between a central government and several regional governments. Each regional government has its own laws and policies, but they all follow the same basic principles.
Republic	A republic is a form of government in which the people elect their representatives to make the laws and policies of the state. The representatives are often called senators or congressmen.
Dictatorship	A dictatorship is a form of government in which a single person, the dictator, rules the state. The dictator has absolute power and is often a military leader.
Theocracy	A theocracy is a form of government in which the religious leaders rule the state. The laws and policies of the state are based on religious principles.
Totalitarianism	Totalitarianism is a form of government in which the state has complete control over all aspects of life. The state controls the economy, the media, and the education system.
