

Chapter 1
Matter

Properties of Matter

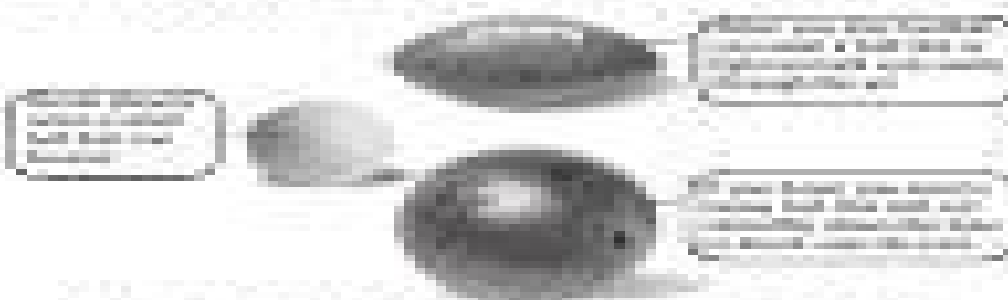

QUESTIONS

Are you able to distinguish, based on the questions in school

- Why are solids, liquids and gases grouped together?
- Why are substances and mixtures classified together?

What Are Physical Properties?

Look at the table in the chapter below to start to understand the meaning of some common properties.

If physical properties of substances can be observed without changing the identity of the substance, then the properties of an object can only be observed. For example, you can observe an object's color, texture, shape, size, or weight. In general, the properties of an object are determined by the particles of the substance. The shape depends on it.

Many of the physical properties of materials that make up objects can be measured. These properties include density, hardness, magnetism, and the ability to conduct heat and electricity.

Some physical properties depend on how much of a material you have. In other words, a large amount of a material may have different properties than a smaller amount of the material. Other physical properties do not depend on how much of the material you have. They show that no matter how large or small something is, it has the same physical property or always the same

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Identify, as given, the materials or objects having characteristic properties associated with different states of matter.

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Identify and draw proper solid, liquid and gas particles shown in diagrams.

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

Identify and describe the properties of matter.
