What are the differences between Clustered and Unclustered Lookup?

The differences are explained in the below table:

Clustered Lookup	Unclustered Lookup
Clustered lookup performs an iterative scan across the table (i.e. all the rows) for the given key.	Unclustered lookup performs a single scan from the start of a table (i.e. sequentially) for a given key.
Clustered lookup can be used to perform a join across tables.	Unclustered lookup can be used to perform a join.
Clustered lookup can perform table lookups with a constant value (e.g. 'orange').	Unclustered lookup can perform table lookups with a variable value (e.g. 'orange').
Clustered lookup performs an iterative scan.	Unclustered lookup performs a single scan across the table (i.e. sequentially) and then returns.
Supports multi-valued lookup tables (i.e. tables for which a key lookup condition can be satisfied).	Does not support multi-valued lookup tables.

What is meant by active and passive transformation?

Active transformation is the one that writes the row of the table to the table.

1. Change the content of table. Example: transform input and output. Example: filter transformation.
2. Change the structure of table. By adding column or removing column. Example: transform transformation.
3. Change the row type. Example: replace column or adding column to keep the row but modify some attribute of row.
