What are the differences between Clustered and Unclustered Lookup?

The differences are explained in the below table:

Clustered Lookup	Unclustered Lookup
Clustered lookup performs an iterative scan across the entire table to find the position	Unclustered lookup performs a single scan from the start to the end of the partition to find the position
Clustered lookup can use more systems to scan the table	Unclustered lookup needs to scan the entire table
Clustered lookup can return data from the entire table (e.g. all records)	Unclustered lookup can return only the records within the range of
Clustered lookup returns all record responses	Unclustered lookup returns only the records that are in the range of the partition and the range
Supports multi-valued range values (e.g. range for values where multiple conditions are not specified)	Does not support non-range range values

What is meant by active and passive transformation?

Active transformation is the one that writes the output of the transformation.

1. Change the content of data between transformed input and output. Examples: filter transformation
2. Change the structure/ schema by adding, joining or removing parts. Examples: transform transformation
3. Change the data type. Examples: replace strings to other values to keep the data but modify source, update of type
