adaptations

BIRD BEAKS Name: _____

Adaptations are traits that help a species survive in their environment. Each of the three species described below live in a different environment, which means that they will each have different traits that help them. Read about each of the birds to learn about how their beaks are adapted for their habitats.

Robin
Robins forage (search) for small bugs in the water. They eat many insects, flies, and worms. Sometimes they also eat small fish. They capture these creatures by conforming to something different in the water with their beaks. Unlike anything else, they come from inside to outside, they take a slightly open to capture any prey. Sometimes robins may also catch at the water or even change their heads under water to grab prey that is deeper below the surface.

Loon
Loons are carnivorous birds whose diet consists mostly of fish. Sometimes they eat sea urchins. To capture their prey, loons begin diving from the sky and grab the unsuspecting fish or food with their beaks (the sharp edge on their feet). When it's time to eat, the loon holds the prey with one of its beaks and uses the back of the lower jaw to tear the fish off the bone with its beak.

BIRD BEAKS

Summarize your findings about each bird and its beak.

Bird Species	Food (What do they eat?)	Beak (What do they do?)
Sparrow
Toucan
Woodpecker
Loon
Drydenwater

Hummingbird
Hummingbirds eat a lot of nectar, grass, and insects. They are very small birds and can fly very fast. They have a long, thin beak that is perfect for reaching into a flower and sucking out the nectar. Their beak is also very strong and can be used to peck at wood.

Pelican
Pelicans have mostly on fish. To catch their prey, pelicans usually swim down on a surface of the water above. Then they jump up and down to get under the fish. Returning to the air, the pelican will catch the lower end of their prey before swallowing the fish.

Sparrow
Sparrows primarily eat small seeds and insects. These birds forage for insects for their prey by feeding on the ground. Sparrows are not concerned to see or smell or taste anything, and they will often take advantage of a bird feeder where it is common.

Toucan
The toucan is a bird that primarily feeds on fruit. These birds live in the rain forest and are often found in the canopy. Their beak is long enough to reach fruit on branches that wouldn't support the full weight of their body, and it has rounded edges that help to peel fruit. It's thought that the toucan's large beak may also play a role in courtship or both sexes.

Woodpecker
The woodpecker's beak is strong and the enough to enable it to be used for drilling holes in wood. In order to protect the shaft's keratin, a thick, springy shell has developed to absorb the impact of the repeated blows. The woodpecker also has a long, sticky tongue that can be used to catch insects from the holes they have drilled.

Loon
The loon is an carnivorous bird who eats insects such as grasshoppers and worms. They have also been known to eat fish, frogs, eggs, and other small birds. The loon primarily uses its long beak to probe into the water or mud for insects such as earthworms.

Drydenwater
Drydenwater feed almost solely on plants, insects, and spiders. To catch their prey, drydenwaters will usually through water wells, looking for one with an open shell. When they spot one, the bird uses their beak to break it open and use it to pierce the outside of the shell. Some species of drydenwater also smash the shell open before enjoying the inside.
