Chapter 1-10

CHAPTER 1 ACCOUNTING IN ACTION

CHAPTER LEARNING OBJECTIVES

1. Identify the uses and users of accounting and the objective of financial reporting. Accounting is the information system that identifies, records, and communicates the economic events of an organization to a wide variety of interested users. Good accounting is important to people both inside and outside the organization. Internal users, such as management, use accounting information to plan, control, and evaluate business operations. External users include investors and creditors, among others. Accounting data are used by investors (owners or potential owners) to decide whether to buy, hold, or sell their financial interests. Creditors (suppliers and bankers) evaluate the risks of granting credit or lending money based on the accounting information. The objective of financial reporting is to provide useful information to investors and creditors to make these decisions. Users need information about the business's ability to earn a profit and generate cash. For our economic system to function smoothly, reliable and ethical accounting and financial reporting are critical.

2. Compare the different forms of business organization. The most common examples of business organization are proprietorships, partnerships, and corporations. Proprietorships and partnerships are not separate legal entities but are separate entities for accounting purposes; income taxes are paid by the owners and owners have unlimited liability. Corporations are separate legal entities as well as separate entities for accounting purposes; income taxes are paid by the corporation and owners of the corporation have limited liability.

3. Explain the building blocks of accounting: ethics and the concepts included in the conceptual framework. Generally accepted accounting principles are a common set of guidelines that are used to prepare and report accounting information. The conceptual framework outlines some of the body of theory used by accountants to fulfill their goal of providing useful accounting information to users. Ethical behaviour is fundamental to fulfilling the objective of financial accounting. The reporting entity concept requires the business activities of each reporting entity to be kept separate from the activities of its owner and other economic entities. The going concern assumption presumes that a business will continue operations for enough time to use its assets for their intended purpose and to fulfill its commitments. The periodicity concept requires businesses to divide up economic activities into distinct periods of time. Qualitative characteristics include fundamental and enhancing characteristics that help to ensure accounting information is useful. Only events that cause changes in the business's economic resources or changes to the claims on those resources are recorded. Recognition is the process of recording transactions and
