Handbook of Research on Multidisciplinary Perspectives on Managerial and Leadership Psychology Johnson, Rick D., 2021-01-22 The subject of leadership and managerial psychology exists as a sub branch of psychology within the fields of industrial and organizational psychology There still appears to be ongoing debate regarding the core pathology for gaining managerial expertise in professional roles relative to having suitable leadership skills and managerial knowledge beyond the direct daily work involved in organizations Professional organizations inherently include varied levels of sensitive human interactions which further necessitates their management professionals to have leadership styles that are adjustable contingent on a given situation Relative to this edited book managerial psychology is being utilized in a way that may subsequently seek to develop a series of scientific theory principles where the focus is to develop managerial axioms that advance contemporary existing knowledge surrounding professional management logic The Handbook of Research on Multidisciplinary Perspectives on Managerial and Leadership Psychology provides value uncovered by a collaboration of generalists and specialists who bring professional managerial and leadership opinions to light through narratives and research inclusive of fundamental theory principles that can be applied in practice and academia This edited reference is focused on the enhancement of management research through managerial psychology while highlighting topics including business process knowledge management in diverse discipline situations and professions corporate leadership responsibility leadership of self and others and leadership psychology in a variety of different fields of work This book is ideally designed for leadership and management professionals academicians students and researchers in the fields of knowledge management administrative sciences and management leadership development education and organization development sub branches or specialty practices

Critical-Care Nurses' Perceived Leadership Practices, Organizational Commitment, and Job Satisfaction Ngozi I. Moneke, 2016-12-28 My writing of this book has evolved over the past thirty six years of professional nursing practice These were my first efforts as an author which were published in 2013 Promoting a Culture of Safety Preventing Central Line Infections in Weill Cornell Medical Center which used a performance improvement process to lower the rate at which critically ill patients in cardiac care developed central line infections and Factors Influencing Critical Nurses Perception of their Overall Job Satisfaction An Empirical Study which used a correctional approach and was statistically analyzed to determine the perception of critical care nurses of their manager s leadership style and its effect on their job satisfaction Having been on the receiving end of leadership behaviors gave me a firsthand opportunity to observe these diverse nurse leaders at both extremes of the spectrum from laissez faire leadership style to dictatorial leadership style and everything in between Each encounter has enriched my life immeasurably My personal and professional experiences as well as the knowledge I gained from completing my dissertation all compelled me to write this book to share with novice managers and those aspiring for a leadership role an awareness and provide them with some valuable information needed as they forge their career paths into a leadership role knowing that one of the keys to effective leadership is the ability to stay intellectually curious and committed to learning with the understanding that new knowledge can come from variety of sources and to make it a point of duty to be always on a lookout for new knowledge

Culture and Environment

,2019-07-01 The inspiration for this book arose out of a large international conference the ninth World Environmental Education Congress WEEC organized under the theme of Culture Environment Similarly the theme for this book focuses on the Culture Environment nexus The book is divided into two parts Part 1 consists of a series of research studies from an eclectic selection of researchers from all corners of the globe Part 2 consists of a series of case studies of practice selected from a wide diversity of K Postsecondary educators The intent behind these selections is to augment and highlight the diversity of both cultural method and cultural voice in our descriptions of environmental education practice The chapters focus on a multi disciplinary view of Environmental Education with a developing view that Culture and Environment may be inseparable and arise from and within each other Cultural change is also a necessary condition and a requirement to rebuild and reinvent our relationship with nature and to live more sustainably The chapters address the spirit of supporting our praxis and are therefore directed towards both an educator and researcher audience Each chapter describes original research or curriculum development work

Boyce, Lisa Hinz, 2008 Doing Good in Singapore: Resourcing for the future Isabel Sim, Alfred Loh, Chee Khiang Teo, 2019 Singapore's social service sector faces a future that looks nothing like the past. It has to deal with mounting challenges in social needs that are growing and changing arising from a rapidly ageing population, changing family structures and other factors. While the government has been boosting social spending and welfare provisions to strengthen the safety nets and stepping up social programmes, this has to be accompanied by financial prudence so that future generations of Singaporeans are not saddled with financial burden. This second book extends the discussion by focussing on specific ways in which social service organisations (SSOs) can develop organisational competencies, build capacity and capability to tackle the rising social challenges as well as deliver high social impact. It also engages thought leaders for their views and insights on how the sector can better position itself in light of the changing social landscape. Preface Proceedings International Organisations in Africa Fredrick Muyia Nafukho, Nelson H. W. Wawire, Penina Mungania K. Lam, 2011 Adult education is now considered a mainstream academic discipline in several African countries and its importance in today's knowledge and ideas economies is growing steadily. It is provided by organisations such as public universities, training colleges, corporate universities and employers. The successful operation of educational organisations requires sound leadership and management.

Management of Adult Education Organisations in Africa examines African perspectives of managerial leadership, highlighting the importance of management in the design and effective delivery of adult education programmes. The ten chapters in this book focus on the following: Management and diversity, Leadership in adult education organisations, Management approaches in Africa, Human resources development, Organisational development and change, Ubuntu embedded leadership and organisational learning, Planning, implementation and evaluation, Time management in an organisation, Financial management and The challenges and opportunities of managing adult education organisations. Making explicit reference to African models and understandings of management, chapters in Management of Adult Education Organisations in Africa include a set of learning objectives, definitions of key terms and clearly written summaries of the essential information and discussion points.
Additional activities, case studies and suggested reading material help to provide a complete resource for students of management in an adult education context. The book will have special appeal to those wishing to learn about and embark on an educational management career. It will also be a useful reference source to those who are already in positions of management and leadership of educational organisations. Provided by publisher
