Cognitive Ability Test Questions Qld Police:

Counter-Terrorism Community Engagement Jason Hartley, 2021-04-20 This book offers insights into the building of trust in Muslim communities through community engagement in a climate of counter terrorism Police engagement with Muslim communities is complex with a history of distrust This book first attempts to understand the role and implications of uncertainty on community engagement in Muslim communities and then explores the cultural nuances associated with the demonstration of trustworthiness and decisions to bestow trust It further highlights the complexities and implications for Muslim leaders when trying to simultaneously engage police and appease their own communities the book exposes community perceptions of an over reaction by authorities that has moved suspicion from a handful of terrorists to the entire Muslim community resulting in problematic community perceptions that Muslim communities are being targeted by police The findings suggest that the intentionality of police is a highly significant consideration in trust negotiations and reveals a number of cultural preferences considered critical to trust negotiations The book further highlights opportunities to enhance the development of trust and avoid pitfalls that can be problematic to community engagement The lessons learned seek to enhance the existing body of literature regarding strategies and resources to improve counter terrorism community engagement with Muslim communities This book will be of much interest to students of counter terrorism preventing violent extremism deradicalization and security studies

Resources in Education ,1992 Criminology, Penology and Police Science Abstracts ,1997 Psychology and Law Neil Brewer, Kipling D. Williams, 2017-02-13 From the initial investigation of a crime to the sentencing of an offender many everyday practices within the criminal justice system involve complex psychological processes This volume analyzes the processes involved in such tasks as interviewing witnesses detecting deception and eliciting eyewitness reports and identification from adults and children Factors that influence decision making by jurors and judges are examined as well Throughout findings from experimental research are translated into clear recommendations for improving the quality of evidence and the fairness of investigative and legal proceedings The book also addresses salient methodological questions and identifies key directions for future investigation

The Philosopher's Index ,1992 Vols for 1969 include a section of abstracts Understanding Youth Crime Mark Lynch, 2017-07-12 This title was first published in 2003 Adolescence is popularly understood as a transitional phase of turbulence and extremes It is also often associated with trouble Criminal justice statistics however reveal that youth criminality remains a relatively rare phenomenon less than one percent of the total adolescent population in any given year This exceptional book is based upon a major Australian research programme to consider the key social factors impacting upon the lives of young people A sample of 1 300 young people was divided into three major subgroups a control group drawn from state secondary schools and closely approximating the general population a chronically marginalized cohort representing a vulnerable group and a group of offenders most of whom were incarcerated at the time of the research With its rich data source and highly integrated structure the book makes a major contribution to our understanding of adolescent criminality and associated policy both in Australia and internationally

Neuroscience perspectives on Security: Technology, Detection, and Decision Making Elena Rusconi, Kenneth C. Scott-Brown, Andrea Szymkowiak, 2015-08-03 In security science efficient operation depends typically on the interaction between technology human and machine detection and human and machine decision making A perfect example of this interplay is gatekeeping which is aimed to prevent the passage of people and objects that represent known threats from one end to the other end of an access point Gatekeeping is most often achieved via visual inspections mass screening random sample probing and or more targeted controls on attempted passages at points of entry Points of entry may be physical e g national borders or virtual e g connection log ons Who and what are defined as security threats and the resources available to gatekeepers determine the type of checks and technologies that are put in place to ensure appropriate access control More often than not the net performance of technology aided screening and authentication systems ultimately depends on the characteristics of human operators Assessing cognitive affective behavioural perceptual and brain processes that may affect gatekeepers while undertaking this task is fundamental On the other hand assessing the same processes in those individuals who try to breach access to secure systems e g hackers and try to cheat controls e g smugglers is equally fundamental and challenging From a security standpoint it is vital to be able to anticipate focus on and correctly interpret the signals connected with such attempts to breach access and or elude controls in order to be proactive and to enact appropriate responses Knowing cognitive behavioral social and neural constraints that may affect the security enterprise will undoubtedly result in a more effective deployment of existing human and technological resources Studying how inter observer variability human factors and biology may affect the security agenda and the usability of existing security technologies is of great economic and policy interest In addition brain sciences may suggest the possibility of novel methods of surveillance and intelligence gathering This is just one example of a typical security issue that may be fruitfully tackled from a neuroscientific and interdisciplinary perspective The objective of our Research Topic was to document across relevant disciplines some of the most recent developments ideas methods and empirical findings that have the potential to expand our knowledge of the human factors involved in the security process To this end we welcomed empirical contributions using different methodologies such as those applied in human cognitive neuroscience biometrics and ethology We also accepted original theoretical contributions in the form of review articles perspectives or opinion papers on this topic The submissions brought together researchers from different backgrounds to discuss topics which have scientific applicative and social relevance
