

THE NERVOUS SYSTEM

The nervous system is the master coordinating system of the body. Every thought, action, and sensation reflects its activity. The structures of the nervous system are described in terms of two principal divisions—the central nervous system (CNS) and the peripheral nervous system (PNS). The CNS (brain and spinal cord) interprets incoming sensory information and issues instructions based on past experience. The PNS (cranial and spinal nerves and ganglia) provides the communication lines between the CNS and the body's muscles, glands, and sensory receptors. The nervous system is also divided functionally in terms of motor activities into the somatic and autonomic divisions. It is important, however, to recognize that these classifications are made for the sake of convenience and that the nervous system acts in an integrated manner both structurally and functionally.

Student activities provided in this chapter review neuron anatomy and physiology, identify the various structures of the central and peripheral nervous system, consider reflex and sensory physiology, and summarize autonomic nervous system anatomy and physiology. Because every body system is controlled, at least in part, by the nervous system, these understandings are extremely important to understanding how the body functions as a whole.

1. List the three major functions of the nervous system.

Biology: How Life Works (Volume 1) James Morris, 2013-01-04 Ordinarily textbooks are developed by first writing chapters then making decisions about art and images and finally once the book is complete assembling a test bank and ancillary media This process dramatically limits the integration across resources and reduces art media and assessments to ancillary material rather than essential resources for student learning Biology How Life Works is the first project to develop three pillars the text the visual program and the assessment at the same time All three pillars were developed in parallel to make sure that each idea is addressed in the most appropriate medium and to ensure authentic integration These three pillars are all tied to the same set of core concepts share a common language and use the same visual palette In this way the text visual program and assessments are integral parts of student learning rather than just accessories to the text changes to enhance the text's flow. As the following features indicate, the major thrust of the new edition is to enhance accessibility and further stimulate student interest.
