require medication religious affiliations genetic predispositions etc Considering these special factors during each case means that I can recommend precisely the level of care each client needs to be based on an all inclusive understanding of their addiction In conclusion an assessment is an irreplaceable tool and the first step towards recovery My staff and I are a very tight team and have been so for at least 25 years When a small group of people work as such a tight unit it allows us to cover many different variates of addiction and bring that experience to this workbook I feel it is also important to note that my practice has achieved feats such as being named Professional of the Year for the Northwest Region as part of the Florida Drug and Alcohol Addiction Abuse Association s 2011 Award for Excellence Now finally let me explain why I have republished this book Over the years we have noticed a lot of agencies do not offer or work with relapse prevention This was a mistake even my practice made in the first publications of this book This new publication is meant to rectify that error The field of addiction is always a learning process and I want to grow with you I have seen how relapse prevention helps clients with slips and relapse as well as understanding the difference As a team my practice has decided that this needs to be more prominent and therefore have transformed our final stone Stone 7 into just that RELAPSE PREVENTION I believe this is critical to helping clients remain clean and sober Since being published in 2010 this workbook has been approved as an evidence based program and accepted for use by the Florida Department of Corrections Department of Children and Families independent treatment centers and is a favorite among our private clientele achieved feats such as being named Professional of the Year for the Northwest Region as part of the Florida Drug and Alcohol Addiction Abuse Association's 2011 Award for Excellence Now finally let me explain why I have republished this book Over the years we have noticed a lot of agencies do not offer or work with relapse prevention This was a mistake even my practice made in the first publications of this book This new publication is meant to rectify that error The field of addiction is always a learning process and I want to grow with you I have seen how relapse prevention helps clients with slips and relapse as well as understanding the difference As a team my practice has decided that this needs to be more prominent and therefore have transformed our final stone Stone 7 in to just that RELAPSE PREVENTION I believe this is critical to helping clients remain clean and sober
