2 FLEXIBLE WORKSPACES

Dutch employees spend significant amounts of time out of the office, in meetings and working in smaller than in previous would need to be. It accommodates this new way of working. The Edge provides flexible workspaces and there are no assigned desks. This, together, has helped for people to work more effectively and to increase the amount of space available for business deals.

3 ACTIVITY BASED WORKING

At The Edge, the percentage of employees not using for gathering, meeting and break-out spaces is 20%, compared to the average 10% in most office buildings. The Edge is designed to be an open-plan office environment for increasing what kind of environments they need for each specific task, whether quiet and focused, collaborative and creative, meeting, sitting, or standing. These different environments include Activity Based Working.

4 CHANGE MANAGEMENT

The building is designed with the future in mind. On a basic, structural level, it could be converted to other uses such as residential or even housing with relative ease. The building was partly commissioned by Ducth's Change Management Commission and with the advisory URB, both bodies to create the organizational plan around the design of the new building, increasing Ducth's strategy with a successful targeted approach to change.

5 THE BUBBLE APP

Every employee is connected to the building via access on their smartphones. This app contains strategic functions such as the interface for their smartphone with the building, they can find parking spaces, they can find their colleagues, report issues to the facilities team, or even manage their own office space.

6 PERSONALIZED WORKSPACES

Employees can customize their workspace and light levels according to their needs to work in the building and the mobility app. The app remembers how they use their office, and even tracks their energy use so they're aware of it.

7 SMART FACILITIES

The digital infrastructure embedded into The Edge is connected to every building system, from lighting, and many other aspects of the building's smart and other systems. This digital infrastructure enables management to automatically generate reports, to lights that need replacing, printers that need paper, and a multitude of other daily occurrences in a large office environment.

8 DATA

The vast amount of data generated by the building's digital systems and the mobile app are being used to generate insights for building systems, how they perform in terms of just Ducth's own operations, but are also being used to generate insights for the wider industry and knowledge transfer.

SUSTAINABILITY

1 ORIENTATION

The building's orientation is based on the path of the sun. The green facade on the building is maximum daylight while the solar panels on the southern facade shield the workspaces from the sun.

2 FACADES

Each facade is uniquely oriented according to its structure and purpose:

- East-facing walls in the south, east and west have vertical openings to provide optimal views and shading, and also generate power for the building.
- Louvers on the south facade are designed according to sun angles and provide additional shading for the office spaces, reducing solar heat gain.
- Solar panels on the south facade provide enough sustainable electricity to power all smart lighting, signage and other systems.
- The facade facades are highly transparent and use three glass to demonstrate how the building looks.
- The atrium facade is highly transparent, allowing natural light over the atrium and giving people light in.

3 GREEN LIGHTING

The building integrates an Ethernet-enabled LED lighting system, which integrates 20,000 sensors, or connectivity, to monitor air quality, lighting levels, humidity and temperature, allowing the building to automatically adjust lighting use.

4 SOLAR PANEL ROOF

Solar panels on the roof of the building generate a lot of energy to power the thermal energy store.

5 ENERGY STORE

The atrium acts as a buffer between the workplace and the external environment. It acts as a thermal store, and the office is kept cool again to maintain the atrium space. The air is then recirculated back out through the top of the atrium where it passes through a heat exchanger to re-use any leftover temperature conditioning.

6 RAIN WATER REUSE

Water is collected in the roof and used for flush toilets and to irrigate the green terraces in the atrium and other green areas surrounding the building.

7 THERMAL ENERGY STORAGE

The 1,200m<sup>3</sup> storage tanks store heat in an efficient allowing thermal energy efficiency to be maximised underground.

8 HYDROLOGICAL CYCLE

The green spaces that surround the building mean that rainfall harvesting can be an ecological solution, allowing permeable pavements to reduce the risk of flooding.
