Formal And Transcendental Logic 9th Edition:

The Lived Experience of Hate Crime Michael Salter, Kim McGuire, 2019-12-05 This book approaches the topic of the subjective lived experience of hate crime from the perspective of Husserlian phenomenology. It provides an experientially well-grounded account of how and what is experienced as a hate crime and what this reveals about ourselves as the continually reconstituted subject of such experiences. The book shows how qualitative social science methods can be better grounded in philosophically informed theory and methodological practices to add greater depth and explanatory power to experiential approaches to social sciences topics. The Authors also highlight several gaps and contradictions within Husserlian analyses of prejudice which are exposed by attempts to concretely apply this approach to the field of hate crimes. Coverage includes the difficulties in providing an empathetic understanding of expressions of harmful forms of prejudice underlying hate crimes including hate speech arising from our own and others' life worlds. The Authors describe a Husserlian-based view of hate crime as well as a novel interpretation of the value of the comprehensive methodological stages pioneered by Husserl. The intended readership includes those concerned with discrimination and hate crime as well as those involved in qualitative research into social topics in general. The broader content level makes this work suitable for undergraduate and postgraduate students even professionals within law enforcement. Michel Henry Jeffrey Hanson, Michael R.

Kelly, 2012-02-09 Michel Henry 1922-2002 was a French philosopher and novelist whose work spanned decades and genres while remaining united by a singular vision. In this specially commissioned collection eight internationally recognized experts on Henry's thought investigate his profound acquaintance with the mystery of life which he understood as the irreducible bedrock of all reality in its self-manifestation under the rubrics of phenomenological experience, religion, and praxis. Each chapter investigates a different aspect of Henry's remarkable range of thought focusing on his special relevance to debates on the relationship of phenomenology and theology as well as to contemporary radical discourses on embodiment and immanence, politics, and theory. Henry's phenomenology of life is both deep and demanding and its relevance to the topics under examination in this book cannot be denied. This collection represents the first sustained effort in coming to an understanding of just how far and wide that relevance reaches. It will not only spark a resurgence in Henry studies but resonate within that sphere for many years to come. Times of Global Injustice Paolo Amorosa, Ville Erkkilä, Karolina

Stenlund, 2026-04-21 Time is an essential dimension of our shared understandings of the historical significance or fairness of a particular event or situation. The ways time is constructed, however, are characterized by a plurality of diverse and sometimes inconsistent representations. This book examines the uses of different conceptualizations of time in explaining injustice and justice in society from an interdisciplinary perspective. It is the temporal representations that are the focus of this book here. How and by whom are they constructed? How do they weave together or fray in the process of working through temporary or permanent injustices and what spaces are made or quashed for different understandings of time? The book gathers scholars from different backgrounds with expertise from law history politics and international relations philosophy and sociology to examine the temporality of in justice in society The chapters of the book are integrated around a coherent central theme The unavoidable intertwining of time and justice As well as addressing the lived processes of collectively coming to terms with temporal experiences and justice the book work also discusses the different disciplinary ways of making sense of such processes and the strengths and pitfalls of each approach The collection will be of interest to researchers and students of legal theory international relations global history memory studies and political philosophy

Karl Jaspers' Philosophy and Psychopathology Thomas Fuchs, Thiemo Breyer, Christoph Mundt, 2013-10-28 This book is based on a congress evaluating Jaspers basic psychopathological concepts and their anthropological roots in light of modern research paradigms It provides a definition of delusion his concept of limit situation so much challenged by trauma research and his methodological debate We are approaching the anniversary of Jaspers seminal work General Psychopathology in 1913 The Centre of Psychosocial Medicine of the University with its Psychiatric Hospital where Jaspers wrote this influential volume as a 29 year old clinical assistant hosted a number of international experts familiar with his psychiatric and philosophical work This fruitful interdisciplinary discussion seems particularly important in light of the renewed interest in Jaspers work which will presumably increase towards the anniversary year 2013 This volume is unique in bringing together the knowledge of leading international scholars and combining three dimensions of investigation that are necessary to understand Jaspers in light of contemporary questions history section I methodology section II and application section III A Metaphysics for the Future Robert Allinson, 2017-11-01 This title was first published in 2001 This work is intended to serve not only as an expression of a new idea of a philosophy but as an apologia for philosophy as a legitimate and independent discipline in its own right It argues that in the 20th century truth has not been abandoned but merely modified The text proposes a return to truth and suggests that it is only after apprehending the truths of consciousness that the philosopher s mirror may become a kaleidoscope through which reality may be contemplated First order truth lies in the realm of discovery and discovery takes place only within the moment of subjective re enactment The Continuum
