Research on the etiology of adult psychopathology and its relationship with childhood trauma has focused primarily on specific forms of maltreatment. This study developed an instrument for the assessment of childhood and adolescence trauma that would aid in identifying the role of co-occurring childhood stressors and chronic adverse conditions. The Complex Trauma Questionnaire (ComplexTQ), in both clinician and self-report versions, is a measure for the assessment of multi-type maltreatment: physical, psychological, and sexual abuse; physical and emotional neglect as well as other traumatic experiences, such rejection, role reversal, witnessing domestic violence, separations, and losses. The four-point Likert scale allows to specifically indicate with which caregiver the traumatic experience has occurred. A total of 229 participants, a sample of 79 nonclinical and that of 150 high-risk and clinical participants, were assessed with the ComplexTQ clinician version applied to Adult Attachment Interview (AAI) transcripts. Initial analyses indicate acceptable inter-rater reliability. A good fit to a 6-factor model regarding the experience with the mother and to a 5-factor model with the experience with the father was obtained; the internal consistency of factors derived was good. Convergent validity was provided with the AAI scales. ComplexTQ factors discriminated normative from high-risk and clinical samples. The findings suggest a promising, reliable, and valid measurement of early relational trauma that is reported; furthermore, it is easy to complete and is useful for both research and clinical practice.

Introduction

Over the past two decades, evidence regarding the harmful impact of early maltreatment has accumulated significantly. Two-thirds of adolescents and adults report having suffered from child relational trauma, which represents a root cause of major public health issues (Copeland et al., 2007; van der Kolk and d'Andrea, 2010). Previous research has primarily focused on single types of maltreatment sequelae; however, most maltreated children experience more than one form of abuse and neglect (Kessler, 2000; Spinazzola et al., 2005; Pynoos et al., 2008). Indeed, in literature on child

Principles of Trauma Therapy John N. Briere, Catherine Scott, 2024-12-27 John Briere and Catherine Scott's Principles of Trauma Therapy Third Edition is both comprehensive in scope and highly practical in application. This best-selling text provides a creative synthesis of cognitive behavioral, relational affect regulation, mindfulness, and psychopharmacologic approaches to the real-world treatment of acute and chronic posttraumatic states. Grounded in empirically supported trauma treatment techniques and adapted to the complexities of actual clinical practice, this book is a hands-on resource for front-line clinicians, those in private practice, and graduate students of public mental health. Contextual Behavior Therapy for Sexual and Gender Minority Clients Matthew D. Skinta, 2020-11-22 Combining theory, research, and case studies, this book shows clinicians how to apply transdiagnostic contextual behavioral approaches when working with sexual and gender minority (SGM) clients. The text first examines minority stress theory through the lens of contextual behavior analysis. Subsequent chapters illustrate the application of therapeutic techniques drawn from acceptance and commitment therapy, functional analytic psychotherapy, and compassion-focused therapy. The book concludes with a close look at special areas of consideration, including pre-surgical evaluation, the impact of HIV on SGM communities, ethical considerations, and future directions in therapy with SGM clients. Every chapter provides a series of diverse vignettes that illustrate how each aspect of treatment might build upon the last, along with a list of recommended books for further exploration of that topic. This book offers a unique, integrated approach that can be used for case conceptualization and followed as a treatment manual for professionals or graduate students with a foundation in SGM psychology. Anxiety & Trauma Recovery Book Janene M. Donarski, Ph.D., LP, LMSW, CCATP, 2023-06-16 In the decades of being a psychologist, I have not only educated and trained thousands of professionals on how to treat anxiety and trauma with neuroscience-informed treatments, but I have also personally experienced and healed from trauma. Many people who suffer from anxiety and trauma do not feel hope of relief. I know there is relief, and I want to bring that hope to all with this step-by-step treatment book. For a practicing mental health professional, knowing what to do, when, and how to apply these specific treatments is key. This resource-packed text will help you engage your clients with empathy and intelligence, treat their anxiety and trauma, and meet therapeutic goals. Anxiety and Trauma Recovery will help you to understand the brain's anxiety and trauma responses, why and how integrated neuroscience-informed treatment works, and how to apply these treatments to heal anxiety and trauma. You will learn how to integrate brain-based strategies for calming the anxious mind with client communication techniques that motivate change in your clients. The approaches in this book promote adherence to treatment and strengthen the therapeutic alliance, which is essential when working with anxious, worried, traumatized, or obsessive clients. The Impact of Complex Trauma on Development Cheryl Arnold, Ralph Fisch, 2011-10-16 The Impact of Complex Trauma on Development describes what happens cognitively and emotionally, behaviorally, and relationally to people who are repeatedly traumatized in childhood. Part

One brings together trauma theory with a number of theories of human development It directly addresses and describes developmental pathology and its origins Through powerful examples it conveys to the reader the pain and destruction caused by ongoing trauma abuse and continuous stress Part Two written from the perspective of a clinician who has worked extensively with traumatized children and adults is primarily directed to mental health professionals and graduate students These chapters are devoted to describing how to recognize the pathological consequences of trauma and how to intervene and remediate these developmental deficits The overarching theory is psychoanalytically based and developmental but other treatment approaches are integrated into the therapy when they are developmentally and therapeutically appropriate The text raises important questions related to the development of the self its relationship to therapy and the diagnosis and treatment of complex trauma in children adolescents and adults

The Validation of the Trauma Assessment for Young Children Heidi Lynne Strickler,2011 Young children experience a variety of traumatic experiences ranging from divorce and witnessing family violence to living with parents who have addictive behaviors to experiencing severe illness and injury to experiencing population wide traumas to experiencing physical or sexual abuse or other forms of child maltreatment Young children between the ages of 3 and 7 are in the preoperational stage of cognitive development and consequently process these experiences in a different manner than adults As a result assessment measures need to take this cognitive processing into account and look at the children s views of their experiences Psychosocial development is equally important in the development of assessment instruments since children in this age group are within Erikson s stages of initiative versus guilt and industry versus inferiority so they are beginning to develop their own opinions and representations of the world Assessment instruments also need to communicate with children on their own level which at this age is through play The current study developed an assessment instrument of trauma symptoms in young children based on a combination of the American Psychiatric Association s diagnostic criteria for Post Traumatic Stress Disorder PTSD recommendations for alternative diagnostic criteria for PTSD in preschool children and theoretical literature related to complex trauma and developmental trauma disorder in young children The Trauma Assessment for Young Children was tested in a control sample of children from an area Head Start Center and a designated trauma sample from children s advocacy centers and domestic violence shelters The purpose of the study was to validate the Trauma Assessment for Young Children The Trauma Assessment for Young Children had good test retest reliability The measure was found to have moderate internal consistency on both the child report and caregiver report versions with higher levels in the caregiver report The Trauma Assessment for Young Children had good convergent validity with the with the Trauma Symptom Checklist for Young Children s PTSD subscale It demonstrated good discriminant validity with the Child Behavior Checklist s externalizing subscales attention aggression and total externalizing Finally the Trauma Assessment for Young Children demonstrated known groups validity on the caregiver report version of the measure indicating that it has the ability to differentiate between the children who have and have not experienced trauma These results are promising for the future utility of the measure with children who have experienced a trauma however the sample size was small therefore implications for future research are discussed as well as implications for social work policy and practice
