

12. The grass and species names are collectively referred to as the scientific name. It is written in a Latin format as binomial nomenclature, a two name Latin naming system. There are three rules for writing a scientific name using the system. Analyze the information in Model 2 to complete the table below.

Rule 1: The scientific name is always written in 2 names, with the genus name written capitalized and the species name lowercase.

Rule 2: The scientific name is always written in Latin. It is handwritten, it is italicized, and it is underlined.

Rule 3: The first letter of the genus name is a capital letter.

13. The species is used to name the world. Why do you think Latin is used instead of a more popular language?

Yes, in Latin, species means "kind".
Latin was used for all things important in the world.

14. Using the system, would it be possible for two different species to have the same name?

No

15. In Linnaeus' time, classification was based on the appearance of organisms. This does the appearance of organisms such as shape and legs, shells and feathers, and number and color. What are the limitations of classifying organisms by only their appearance?

You may miss something important. Organisms that are similar but have very different functions, a country that doesn't really belong to that country. Looking at appearance to name things will give you a more stable way to name organisms. Use a list that includes ways to name organisms.

- Behaviors
- Ways to obtain food
- Adaptions to environment
