nation a nation that was emerging from the trauma of partition as well as the excesses of colonisation However by focusing with holistic lens on the period in question the Golden Age the book finesses the value of periodisation in this instance Frame analyses of a sample of song sequences from a variety of films are used to demonstrate the roles of various song registers and the way these different registers as identified in the appendices work within the narrative The argument for a connection between songs and narrative in the period is strengthened by an examination of the elements of song picturisation most notably body movement mise en sc nes lyrics vocal expression lighting shots and music A close examination of these elements reinforced the links between felt emotion and the melodramatic form in the Golden Age Furthermore it is argued that while Indian theories of emotional responses notably rasa theory recognised the place of cathartic outpouring in any dramatic presentation the shape and structure of Bollywood cinema was indebted to the melodramatic imaginary that came to India with British colonisation The archival material on English novels read in colonial times indicated that novels dealing with the man of feeling novels such as Henry Mackenzie s The Man of Feeling 1771 and Oliver Goldsmith s The Vicar of Wakefield 1766 provided the melodramatic structures within which native structures of feeling as in the varied rasas may be given felt presence That structure and its emotional pulling power dictated cinema and especially the cinema of the Golden Age There are direct links between Devdas 1935 a seminal film based on a sentimental Bengali novel and Pyaasa 1957 and these links speak to the presence of English discourses of sentimentality Such was their pervasive power indeed their affective intensities and strength that no film of the Golden Age of Bollywood escaped from their enervating and ineluctable presence The argument of the book as indicated above is followed through with references to many films The instance of the Islamicate film Mughal e Azam 1960 is taken up as an example of the power and pervasiveness of the melodramatic temper and the role of songs even when the cinematic genre is that of an epic A close paradigmatic reading of this film shows how the evocative power of sentimentality emotional capital and the genre of melodrama invades an historical narrative and transforms history To give greater depth to the place of songs sentimentality and melodrama the book turns to the two exceptional auteurs of the Golden Age Raj Kapoor and Guru Dutt Between them these two auteurs demonstrate a range of filmic articulations of songs in Hindi cinema and their films illustrate in an exemplary fashion the role of songs in carrying the melodramatic and sentimental narrative of a film The Hindi film auteur as producer director and actor not only imposes his special style on his films but is visible on the screen itself This book is primarily concerned with songs from the Golden Age of Hindi cinema 1951 1963 a period in Hindi film history when emotion sentiment and melodrama were regularly combined to create affective intensities The registers moods and in some cases ragas of songs have been examined over a broad corpus of examples to identify their effect on the spectator their role in the narrative of the film and their thematisation associated with specific emotional states In so doing the book theorises sentimentality and melodrama in the context of Hindi film songs to more fully identify the nature of sentimentality and to more fully understand the way songs play a role in the melodramatic form
