Geometry and Topology of Aspherical Manifolds Luca F. Di Cerbo,Laurențiu G. Maxim,2025-03-31 This volume contains the proceedings of the AMS Special Session on Singer Hopf Conjecture in Geometry and Topology held from March 18 19 2023 at Georgia Institute of Technology Atlanta Georgia It presents a multidisciplinary point of view on the Singer conjecture the Hopf conjecture the study on normalized Betti numbers and several other intriguing questions on the fundamental group and cohomology of aspherical manifolds This volume highlights many interesting research directions in the study of aspherical manifolds and covers a large collection of problems and conjectures about L 2 invariants of aspherical manifolds It provides a snapshot of contemporary research in mathematics at the interface of geometry and topology as well as algebraic geometry The problems are presented from several distinct points of view and the articles in this volume suggest possible generalizations and bridge a gap with closely related problems in differential geometry complex algebraic geometry and geometric topology The volume can play a role in focusing the attention of the mathematical community on these fascinating problems which continue to resist the siege of geometers and topologists It is our hope that this volume will become a valuable resource for early career mathematicians interested in these deep and important questions The American Monthly Magazine and Critical Review H. NG2-Glia (Polydendrocytes) Arthur M. Butt,2016-10-31 Classically the central nervous system CNS was considered to contain neurons and three main types of glial cells astrocytes oligodendrocytes and microglia Now it has been clearly established that NG2 glia are a fourth glial cell type that are identified and defined by their expression of the NG2 chondroitin sulfate proteoglycan Cspg4 NG2 glia differentiate into oligodendrocytes the myelin forming cells of the CNS under the control of multiple extracellular and intrinsic factors Due to this NG2 glia are often referred to in the literature as oligodendrocyte progenitor cells OPCs The name polydendrocytes has been suggested for NG2 glia OPCs to emphasize their nature as a fourth distinct glial cell type NG2 glia respond rapidly to neurotransmission via their synaptic connections with neurons and their repertoire of neurotransmitter receptors and ion channels Bidirectional interactions between NG2 glia and neurons are also important for synaptic function and neuronal integrity NG2 glia respond to most neuropathologies by increased proliferation and differentiation into oligodendrocytes which is critical for replacing damaged myelin after injury and in demyelinating diseases such as multiple sclerosis There is also evidence NG2 glia are capable of generating astrocytes and neurons under some circumstances The full capacity of NG2 glia is not yet clear but their key function is the lifelong generation of oligodendrocytes which is absolutely critical for CNS function and integrity World Almanac and Encyclopedia ,1897 A Method of Predicting Illumination from Light Courts Clyde Tucker Morris,Kwan Yau Tang,1928 Kentucky Stock Farm Andrew G.
