

CRITIQUE OF LOGICAL POSITIVISM

Paul Gerard Horrigan, Ph.D., 2009.

Logical Positivism

Nineteenth century positivism attempted to dismiss metaphysics as illusory and detrimental to the advancement of the positive sciences (e.g., Comte's three stages), while twentieth century neo-positivism or logical positivism, with its principle of verification (which maintains that, aside from the tautological statements of logic and mathematics, meaningful propositions must be verifiable, either directly or indirectly, by sense experience), dismisses metaphysical propositions as meaningless or nonsensical. Logical positivism castigates metaphysics as "nonsense because its sentences 'fail to conform to the conditions under which alone a sentence can be literally significant,'" namely, sensible verification. Its statements belonged to the category neither of the true nor of the false, but of the meaningless. Linguistic analysis distinguished it sharply from science, regarding it either as a diseased intellectual condition to be cured by the therapy of the linguistic analyst, or as a group of problems that inevitably arise from the use of natural language and that are to be solved by linguistic elucidation."¹ The logical positivists dismissed metaphysics as "an emotional outpouring that should use poetry as its medium, but instead used didactic language in an effort to represent itself as objective truth."²

The neo-positivism³ of the Circle of Vienna,⁴ basing itself on the principle of verification, had declared metaphysics, religion, and normative ethics to be nonsensical or meaningless, reducing most of their propositions to the level of inationalist sentiment or emotive expressions. Metaphysical propositions like "God exists," as well as most of the propositions of religion and normative ethics would, according to logical positivism, be deprived of content inasmuch as every content must be derived from sense experience, and so, for the neo-positivist, affirmations like "God exists" and "the human soul is immortal" are nonsensical. The central thesis of neo-positivism is that the fundamental propositions of metaphysics, ethics, religion, and aesthetics are simply meaningless, for they fail the test of empirical verifiability.

Neo-positivism or logical positivism is an attempt to establish the validity of what man knows by an analysis of what he says. After all, man's knowledge of reality is expressed in propositions, so that a linguistic analysis should reveal whether a given proposition is meaningful argues that the objectivist and deterministic assumptions of mainstream policy analysis which are based on the Newtonian positivist worldview or mind set should be transcended After demonstrating that the favored methods of mainstream policy analysis are based on Newtonian ontological and positivist epistemological assumptions and that the connections between these two are intimately and historically related he critically assesses and highlights the contributions of quantum mechanics complexity theory and cognitive science to a new mind set in scientific knowledge a post Newtonian and postpositivist mind set Newtonian positivist and post Newtonian postpositivist worldviews are conceptualized as fuzzy mind sets that is they are not mutually exclusive and that they share assumptions at varying degrees Cognitive science shows that some of the fundamental concepts and assumptions of the Newtonian positivist philosophy such as the concept of causality and the tendency to categorize reality reductionist thinking are the products of the evolutionary adaptation of the human mind and they have become its built in defaults As Morcol suggests we cannot change the biological defaults of our minds but we can change our way of thinking to an extent through a cultural evolution He argues that conscious efforts can be made in policy
