Principles And Practice Of Skin Toxicology By Robert Chilcott:

Principles and Practice of Skin Toxicology Robert Chilcott, Shirley Price, 2008-07-31 Written by authorities in the field this book provides a bottom up approach to studying skin toxicology Principles and Practice of Skin Toxicology clearly outlines basic concepts cites historical and modern references and contains a dictionary for easy reference The inclusion of global legislation and regulatory aspects on the topic makes this a comprehensive review for every practitioner clinical researcher in industry and academia and MSc and PhD student of toxicology Different sections cover skin structure and function principles and measurement of skin absorption clinical aspects of dermal toxicity and in vitro alternatives A section on regulatory and legislative aspects includes case studies from the UK that fulfill European Union and US FDA requirements A glossary provides definitions of technical terms and the chapters contain an introduction learning boxes and summary section for ease of use Includes a chapter on drug delivery through the skin Addresses risk assessment a key area for the interpretation of skin absorption data that is rarely covered

Advances in Dermatological Sciences Robert P. Chilcott, Keith R. Brain, 2012-10 Advances in Dermatological Sciences is a three volume set that collates major scientific research achievements over the last two years in a diverse range of dermatological research fields Examples of key topics covered over all three volumes include experimental models toxicology regulatory exposure assessment therapeutics cosmetics and decontamination A unique feature of the books is the introductory chapter to each section that is written by an internationally recognised expert summarising work to date and explaining how new research contributes to our overall understanding of the skin and where the next major developments are likely to be focussed in the future Each section contains several experimental research chapters that present contemporary research on hot topics or major advances relevant to the dermatological sciences The books incorporate a broad range of specialist topics rather than focussing on one single aspect so as to appeal to a broader audience Thus the proposed books will distil cutting edge advances across all of the dermatological sciences into one major work and so provide a one stop portal for accessing the current state of knowledge that will communicate both a readily accessible overview in the form of introductory chapters and also detailed expert contributions The books will be essential reading for interdisciplinary scientists working in dermal pharmacology dermatological and dermatotoxicological sciences

Immunotoxicity, Immune Dysfunction, and Chronic Disease

Rodney R. Dietert, Robert W. Luebke, 2012-06-05 Chronic diseases are the leading cause of deaths worldwide and according to the World Economics Council and the Harvard School of Public Health the cost of chronic diseases is expected to reach a staggering 48% of global gross domestic product by the year 2030 The urgency of the issue was demonstrated in 2011 when for only the second time in its existence the U N General Assembly brought a health issue to the floor for consideration chronic diseases To date most considerations of the issue have approached the topic from the vantage point that chronic diseases are a myriad of largely unconnected diseases and conditions arising in diverse tissues organs and physiological systems This book Immunotoxicity Immune Dysfunction and Chronic Disease deviates from that prior model It considers the interconnectivity of chronic diseases with both environmental insult of the immune system and subsequent immune dysfunction and inflammatory dysregulation as the underlying basis for many if not most chronic diseases This change in the perception of environment immune linkages to chronic disease is significant and has immediate implications both for the prevention of disease as well as for the development of more effective therapeutic approaches Rather than considering environmental factors and types of reported immune alterations e g depressed humoral immunity as is common in books involving immunotoxicity the present book approaches the environment immune disease triad from the standpoint of the disease Each chapter emphasizes one or more specific immune dysfunction based chronic disease s or condition s e g asthma atherosclerosis multiple sclerosis lupus and describes 1 the suggested environmental risk factors 2 the underlying immune dysfunction s associated with the disease and 3 the overall health consequences of the disease This book is an early entry for a new Toxicology book series for Springer titled Molecular and Integrative Toxicology MaIT The series will feature detailed research information but in the context of a more integrative or holistic framework As part of this framework the chapters will contain a section on Key Points as well as Recommendations where appropriate The goal is to cover the most timely state of the art issues in toxicology as well as to ensure that the information is maximally accessible for research scientists teachers physicians and students We are particularly grateful to the numerous chapter authors for providing comprehensive and expert disease oriented contributions We are also appreciative of their willingness to consider their material not as disparate pieces of what has become a major health crisis but rather as key pieces in a network of apparently interconnected
