David Vogel, University of California Berkeley, US. The Handbook of Research on Global Corporate Citizenship identifies and fosters key interdisciplinary research on corporate citizenship and provides a framework for further academic debate on corporate responsibility in a global society. This exciting and important Handbook provides a unique forum to discuss the consequences of the social and political mandate of business firms and examines the implications of these consequences for the theory of the firm. Leading academics have been invited from various disciplines such as management studies, economics, sociology, legal studies, and political science to evaluate the concept of corporate citizenship and to analyze the role of private business in global governance and the production of global public goods. The Handbook is structured in seven sections: theoretical perspectives on corporate citizenship; contemporary issues and challenges of global business regulation; actors and institutions of global business regulation; disciplinary perspectives on corporate citizenship; implications for management theory; building critical perspectives on corporate citizenship; and conclusions. This Handbook will be a significant read for academics, postgraduate students, and managers interested in the field of corporate citizenship, regulation, and corporate responsibility across the social sciences.

Foreign Investment, Human Rights and the Environment Shyami Puvimanasinghe, 2007-06-30. Events like the Bhopal disaster, the sale of products harmful to human health and safety, and child labour, especially in resource-scarce settings, raise fundamental issues of human dignity and ecological integrity. From a legal perspective and in the context of Foreign Direct Investment by Transnational Corporations in developing countries, they highlight the lacuna of a holistic international legal framework and its implementation. This book embodies a critique of the complex web of public international law principles on economics, human rights, and the environment and their convergence or lack thereof related to regional South Asian and domestic Sri Lankan legal arrangements, interventions of states and non-state actors towards just, equitable, and sustainable development. It is a quest for a middle path in the multidisciplinary landscape of international law, development, and North-South power dynamics, globalization of free trade and investment, and of social and environmental interests, and salient aspects of the philosophical, socio-economic, and legal fabric of South Asia, viewed against the evolving, controversial, and elastic sphere of international relations and law, where consensus has hitherto been an elusive dream.
