Aomame sits in a taxi on the expressway in Tokyo Her work is not the kind which can be discussed in public but she is in a hurry to carry out an assignment and with the traffic at a stand still the driver proposes a solution She agrees but as a result of her actions starts to feel increasingly detached from the real world She has been on a top secret mission and her next job will lead her to encounter the apparently superhuman founder of a religious cult Meanwhile Tengo is leading a nondescript life but wishes to become a writer He inadvertently becomes involved in a strange affair surrounding a literary prize to which a mysterious seventeen year old girl has submitted her remarkable first novel It seems to be based on her own experiences and moves readers in unusual ways Can her story really be true Both Aomame and Tengo notice that the world has grown strange both realise that they are indispensable to each other While their stories influence one another at times by accident and at times intentionally the two come closer and closer to intertwining

The Future of the Word Tiffany Eberle Kriner, 2014 In scripture Jesus promises a future that potentially infuses all texts my words will not pass away Matt 24:35 This book argues that textseven literary texts have an eschatology too a part in God's purpose for the cosmos They with all creation move toward participation in the new creation in the Trinity's expanding creative love This eschatological future for texts impacts how we understand meaning making from the level of semiology to that of hermeneutics This book tells the story of how readers participate in the future of the word the eschatology of texts If texts have a future in the kingdom of God then readers' engagements with them everything from preservation and utterance to translation criticism and call and response can cultivate those futures in the love of the Trinity Kriner explores how the fallenness and failures of texts alongside readers' own failures while seeming to challenge the future of the word ultimately point to reading as a posture of reconciliation in which reader and text meet in the Maranatha of all text
