

Scientific Experiment With Candy

Is Smell Related to Taste?

Supplies

1. Printed worksheet. We will complete this form after we conduct the experiment. So for now, place to the side. This is optional. You can have blank paper too. This will be our report.
2. Pen or Pencil
3. Cup of drinking water
4. 2 jelly beans

Scientific Method

Directions

- Step 1: Have you ever had scratchy nose, and noticed that your food doesn't taste as good? Many scientists think this happens because our sense of smell and taste are connected. When we can't smell, our food might seem less tasty. Today we are going to ask: Is smell really related to taste?
- Step 2: We are now going to conduct an experiment using the scientific method. Before doing so, lets answer question 1 on the science report.
- Step 3: A hypothesis is a smart guess about what you think will happen in an experiment. What is your hypothesis? Do you think smell is related to taste? Indicate this in question 2.
- Step 4: Rinse your mouth with water to cleanse your taste buds. Make sure to gargle for at least 1 minute. We are now going to taste a treat with our nose pinched and not nosed pinched. Will the jellybeans taste stronger when you pinch your nose or when you don't pinch your nose? Answer in question 3.
- Step 5: Pinch your nose and taste the candy without swallowing it.
- Step 6: Rinse your mouth with water again. Make sure to gargle for at least 1 minute.
- Step 7: Now taste the candy without pinching your nose. Again, observe the intensity of the flavor. Now answer question 4.
- Step 8: Now that you almost completed your experiment, go back to your lab report and complete questions to analyze your research and complete your report.
