Fatherland Burkhard Bilger, 2024-06-04 A New Yorker staff writer investigates his grandfather a Nazi Party Chief in a finely etched memoir with the powerful sweep of history David Grann 1 bestselling author of Killers of the Flower Moon Fatherland maintains the momentum of the best mysteries and a commendable balance The New York Times Unflinching and illuminating Bilger s haunting memoir reminds us the past is prologue to who we are as well as who we choose to be The Wall Street Journal A BEST BOOK OF THE YEAR The New Yorker The Washington Post Kirkus Reviews One spring day in northeastern France Burkhard Bilger s mother went to the town of Bartenheim where her father was posted during the Second World War As a historian she had spent years studying the German occupation of France yet she had never dared to investigate her own family s role in it She knew only that her father was a schoolteacher who was sent to Bartenheim in 1940 and ordered to reeducate its children to turn them into proper Germans as Hitler demanded Two years later he became the town s Nazi Party chief There was little left from her father s era by the time she visited But on her way back to her car she noticed an old man walking nearby He looked about the same age her father would have been if he was still alive She hurried over to introduce herself and told him her father s name Karl G nner Do you happen to remember him she said The man stared at her dumbstruck Well of course he said I saved his life didn t I Fatherland is the story behind that story the riveting account of Bilger s nearly ten year quest to uncover the truth about his grandfather Was he guilty or innocent a war criminal or a man who risked his life to shield the villagers Long admired for his profiles in The New Yorker Bilger brings the same open hearted curiosity to his family history and the questions it raises What do we owe the past How can we make peace with it without perpetuating its wrongs The Fatherland ,1915 The Methodist Temperance Magazine George Maunder, Charles Garrett, Thomas Bowman Stephenson, 1870 The Dublin University Magazine ,1844 University Magazine ,1844 Punch Mark Lemon, Henry Mayhew, Tom Taylor, Shirley Brooks, Francis Cowley Burnand, Owen Seaman, 1873 Dublin University Magazine ,1844 The International Library of Famous Literature Richard Garnett, 1899 Peasants into Frenchmen Eugen Weber, 1976 France achieved national unity much later than is commonly supposed For a hundred years and more after the Revolution millions of peasants lived on as if in a timeless world their existence little different from that of the generations before them The author of this lively often witty and always provocative work traces how France underwent a veritable crisis of civilization in the early years of the French Republic as traditional attitudes and practices crumbled under the forces of modernization Local roads and railways were the decisive factors bringing hitherto remote and inaccessible regions into easy contact with markets and major centers of the modern world The products of industry rendered many peasant skills useless and the expanding school system taught not only the language of the dominant culture but its values as well among them patriotism By 1914 France had finally become La Patrie in fact as it had so long been in name The Patriot's Fatherland ,1861 The Poetical Works James Russell

Geography and National Identity David Hooson,1994-10-20 This volume of especially commissioned essays explores the geography of and the role of geography in national and proto national identity Place and national identity are bound together Attachment to the one is almost always inseparable from the sense of the other Yet as this volume shows the articulated self conscious linking of place and identity is by and large a modern phenomenon that took root in nineteenth century Europe The formation of supranational states and the much vaunted globalization of culture led many to believe there would be a progressive dilution of national identities and a growing agglomeration of places and nations into larger state units Precisely the reverse has taken place This book explores the connections between identity and homeland showing how a place may be perceived as archetypal endowed with love and celebrated in music and poetry yet be a pretext for violence and war It examines the evolution of ideas about identity and their manifestations in a wide variety of settings from the former Soviet Union to the island states of the South Pacific
