Gerontological Nursing & Healthy Aging Priscilla

Ebersole, 2005 Gerontological Nursing Healthy Aging provides thorough coverage of promoting healthy aging when caring for older adults. The intent throughout the book is to facilitate the healthiest adaptation possible for any older adult regardless of the situation and disease process. The majority of the book is devoted to discussing the significant problems that may occur and methods that nurses may use to make these problems more bearable to solve some and to help the elder find the best possible resolution towards healthy aging. Incorporates healthy aging strategies to maximize the healthiest behaviors of clients/patients with dementia and their caregivers. Disease processes are discussed in the context of healthy adaptation nursing support responsibilities to help the reader gain an understanding of their client's experience. Focus on health and wellness establishes a positive perspective to aging. Careful attention to age, cultural, and gender differences are integrated throughout to help the nurse understand these important considerations in caring for older adults. Each chapter provides a consistent organization including learning objectives, research study questions, activities. Assessment guidelines are incorporated throughout as tables, boxes, and forms to provide useful tools for practice. Activities and discussion questions at the end of every chapter provide situations to expand student knowledge and understanding. Appendices and resource lists assist in further exploration of material. Text correlates with federal guidelines for Healthy People 2010 to assist the student in integrating knowledge about healthy aging considerations. Expanded content on pharmacologic and nonpharmacologic pain management in Chapter 15 and integrated within appropriate content sections. Completely revised Culture and Aging chapter includes discussions of health disparities and working with interpreters to help identify nursing care interventions appropriate for ethnic elders. New author team with Theris Touhy and Kathleen Jett adds a wealth of experience related to gerontological nursing education and research.

Orthopedic Assessment and Treatment of the Geriatric Patient Carole Bernstein Lewis, Karen A. Knortz, 1993. Focuses on the rehabilitation of active older adults with orthopedic injuries. Bridging the gap between geriatric rehabilitation and orthopedic medicine. Emphasizes that a clear understanding of the physiological effects of age on the neuromuscular system and the healing processes essential in treating this population as well as a thorough understanding of orthopedics. Benefits of exercise including improvement to the cardiovascular system, psychological well-being, and musculoskeletal condition and performance will also be discussed. Practical suggestions concerning evaluation and treatment are included. Written by both orthopedic surgeons and physical therapists.

Handbook of Physiology Edward J. Masoro, 1995. The aims of this new section of the Handbook of Physiology are two. One is to present a source of basic knowledge about aging including research approaches for use by physiologists as well as other biologists not directly involved in aging research. The other is to provide comprehensive information for gerontologists on the physiological characteristics of aging in mammals particularly humans The principles of biological gerontology are presented in Part I which includes discussions of approaches to the measurement of the rate of aging of populations the difficulty of assessing aging of the individual theoretical concepts regarding the nature of aging and conceptual issues concerning the relationship between aging and disease Methodological issues unique to aging research are presented in Part II The focus is on study design and analysis and on cell culture models animal models and human subject use Part III provides a detailed description of the cellular and noncellular aspects of aging This part also discusses the metabolic characteristics of aging In Part IV twelve chapters provide comprehensive coverage of the influence of age on the physiology of the nervous systems and the organism Interventions of aging processes proposed and established are the subject of Part V
