Nies, 2014-08-29 The first stand alone textbook for at least ten years on this increasingly hot topic in times of global climate change and sustainability in ecosystems Ecological biochemistry refers to the interaction of organisms with their abiotic environment and other organisms by chemical means Biotic and abiotic factors determine the biochemical flexibility of organisms which otherwise easily adapt to environmental changes by altering their metabolism Sessile plants in particular have evolved intricate biochemical response mechanisms to fit into a changing environment This book covers the chemistry behind these interactions bottom up from the atomic to the system s level An introductory part explains the physico chemical basis and biochemical roots of living cells leading to secondary metabolites as crucial bridges between organisms and the respective ecosystem The focus then shifts to the biochemical interactions of plants fungi and bacteria within terrestrial and aquatic ecosystems with the aim of linking biochemical insights to ecological research also in human influenced habitats A section is devoted to methodology which allows network based analyses of molecular processes underlying systems phenomena A companion website offering an extended version of the introductory chapter on Basic Biochemical Roots is available at <http://www.wiley.com/go/KraussNies>

Ecological Biochemistry Principles of Environmental Biochemistry Erik Hamilton, 2025-08-25 Environmental biochemistry is a subdiscipline of environmental chemistry that focuses on the chemical and biochemical processes occurring in the natural environments It encompasses several specialized fields including soil chemistry atmospheric chemistry and aquatic chemistry This book is a compilation of chapters that discuss the most vital concepts in the field of environmental biochemistry Some of the diverse topics covered in here address the varied branches that fall under this category This book with its detailed analysis and data will prove immensely beneficial to professionals and students involved in this area at various levels
