The Impact of Job Satisfaction and Organizational Commitment on Turnover Intention Mustafa Kamal Ahmed,2021 Employee turnover has grown in importance for organizations in the wholesale industry due to the increasing numbers of employee turnover rate The high rates are caused by a number of issues most notably by low job satisfaction rates in this industry sector Generally speaking it is the aim of any organization to reduce employee turnover by attracting and retaining the best employees through attractive job offers and employee retention strategies Indeed conducting this study provided a better understanding of factors influencing turnover intention to increase employee retention and organizational performance The primary purpose of this research was to investigate the impact of job satisfaction facets and organizational commitment on turnover intention The quantitative method was used to collect the data by distributing questionnaire surveys among employees in a wholesale trade company The population that participated in this study include 101 employees and managers from different levels spearman s rank correlation and ordinal regression were employed to analyze the findings Based on the hypothesis developed the current study results showed that organizational commitment had the most significant impact on employees turnover intention in the wholesale trade industry which means employees are not dedicated to their jobs and tend to leave their current organization This study also pointed out new results regarding the facets of job satisfaction that lead to turnover intention Generally the high rate of turnover intention is due to the low salary scheme or lack of employee benefits However the remarkable results of this study found out that the most significant impact on turnover intention was employees satisfaction with promotion and talent development On the other hand the most negligible impact was satisfaction with remuneration packages Thus it indicated that recently employees pay more attention to develop their skills and get promoted rather than remuneration packages or non monetary rewards Therefore the findings of this study can be helpful for wholesale trade companies in KRI to reduce employees turnover intention and improve organizational performance Industrial and Labor Relations Review ,1995 Indian Journal of Industrial Relations ,1995 Industrial & Labor Relations Review ,1995
