EMPATHY IN MI

Empathy

Empathy is the ability to understand and share the feelings of another person. It is a key component of Motivational Interviewing (MI) and is essential for building a strong therapeutic relationship.

Effective Empathy in MI

- Use open-ended questions
- Listen actively
- Reflect back what you hear
- Validate the client's experience
- Show unconditional positive regard
- Avoid judgment and criticism
- Be genuine and authentic
- Use reflective listening
- Ask for clarification when needed
- Summarize the client's statements

FOSTERING CHANGE

1. Pick up on Ambivalence

- Ambivalence is a state of mind characterized by mixed feelings or contradictory ideas that inhibit decision making.
- It is a common experience for many people who are considering a change in behavior.
- It is often a result of conflicting values, beliefs, or emotions.
- It can be a sign of readiness for change, as the person is weighing the pros and cons of the behavior.
- It can also be a sign of resistance, as the person is struggling to overcome their fears or doubts.

2. Encourage Exploration of Change

- Encourage the client to explore the reasons for their ambivalence.
- Use open-ended questions to explore the client's thoughts and feelings.
- Reflect back the client's statements to show understanding.
- Validate the client's experience and feelings.
- Encourage the client to consider the benefits of change.
- Encourage the client to consider the consequences of not changing.

REDUCE LIMITING MINDSETS

1. Ignore Limiting Mindsets, Encourage Growth

Limiting mindsets are beliefs that restrict your ability to achieve your goals. They are often based on negative self-talk and can be a major barrier to success. Encouraging growth involves focusing on the client's strengths and potential, rather than their limitations.

2. Use Strategies to Reduce Limiting Mindsets

- Challenge the client's limiting beliefs.
- Encourage the client to focus on their strengths and potential.
- Use positive self-talk to replace negative self-talk.
- Encourage the client to set realistic goals and track their progress.
- Encourage the client to seek support from others.
- Encourage the client to celebrate their successes.
- Encourage the client to practice self-compassion.
- Encourage the client to focus on the process, rather than the outcome.
- Encourage the client to embrace failure as a learning opportunity.
- Encourage the client to stay motivated and persistent.
