The Skeffington Perspective of the Behavioral Model of Optometric Data Analysis and Vision Care Earl P. Schmitt O.D Ed.D D.O.S.,2006-04-28 No systematic analysis of optometric clinical data can be undertaken unless the findings are referred to a logical model that allows comparisons to be made of interaction characteristics that exist between the accommodative and convergence mechanisms inherent to the human vision system Concomitantly many of the concepts applied during any such analytical process are based on hypothetical constructs This text re examines the elements originally proposed by Dr A M Skeffington and offers a revised insight into how performance changes may occur as individual visual behavior adapts to the impact of environmental demands In depth research and extensive references attempt to substantiate the Skeffington paradigm of professional vision analysis Long standing challenges to the optometric profession are identified As presented the contents are appropriate for use as a classroom text for reference and for identifying areas for clinical research

Clinical Optics Andrew R. Elkington,Helena J. Frank,Michael J. Greaney,1999-08-25 Written to help trainee ophthalmologists this textbook is now the recognised text on optics for the examinations of the Royal College of Ophthalmologists and the Royal Surgical Colleges It approaches the subject from first principles and assumes no previous knowledge of optics The book has been kept as simple as possible and is liberally complemented with diagrams designed to be easily understood and memorised Only the most fundamental and clinically useful mathematical formulae are quoted and the optical principles are applied to clinical situations Ophthalmology examinations have changed substantially since the last edition was written and a total rewrite of this essential guide has become necessary The third edition has been made more comprehensive and detailed to keep up with these changes and incorporates three new chapters refractive surgery contact lenses and lasers Other new material includes photometry visual acuity contrast sensitivity colour vision absorptive lenses fluorescence ultrasound and the specular microscope Clinical Optics, 2009
