Bean,D. C. Mann,Robert G. Riley,1980 Control of Disinfection By-products in Drinking Water Systems Anastasia Nikolau,Luigi Rizzo,Hüseyin Selcuk,2007 The occurrence of disinfection by products DBPs in drinking water has been an issue of major concern during several decades The formation of many DBPs species during water disinfection has been documented while new by products are still being detected as the analytical instrumentation available becomes more accurate and sensitive Most of the DBPs have been proven to have toxic effects on living organisms therefore they pose risks to human health during drinking water consumption The factors affecting their formation have been extensively investigated their transport and fate have been studied modelling efforts for several of them have been performed in order to understand better their behaviour and therefore try to minimise their occurrence in waters Techniques for their removal from water have also been applied and a variety of disinfection methods or combinations of disinfecting agents have been investigated with the aim to produce safe drinking water containing the minimum possible concentrations of DBPs This book deals with the advances in control of DBPs in drinking water systems Further than an providing an overview of existing disinfection techniques and by products up to date information on the parameters affecting the procedures of DBPs formation analytical methods for their determination toxicity regulation it pays special emphasis on the advanced treatment methods applied recently for DBPs control and presents recent promising findings as well as case studies in this field as the relevant research is proceeding producing more knowledge and practical solutions in regard to the disinfected drinking water quality

Speciation Analysis of Arsenic, Chromium and Selenium in Aquatic Media International Atomic Energy Agency, 2007 This publication presents the results of a project analysing the speciation of As 3 As 5 Cr 3 Cr 6 and Se 4 Se 6 in water samples Total element concentration does generally not provide adequate information to understand the effects of trace and heavy metals observed in the environment and in living systems The toxicity bioavailability physiological and metabolic processes and the mobility and fate of elements are to a large extent dependent on the specific chemical form of an element Speciation analysis has yet to be developed to its full potential for biochemical clinical and environmental investigations and still more work is needed in the near future However nuclear techniques particularly the use of radioisotopes can help in method development optimization and stability tests of chemical species
