Professional Autonomy and the Public Interest Barry Cahill, 2019-11-07 Formed in 1825 the Nova Scotia Barristers Society is the second oldest law society in common law Canada after the Law Society of Ontario Yet despite its founders ambitions it did not become the regulator of the legal profession in Nova Scotia for nearly seventy five years In this institutional history of the Nova Scotia Barristers Society from its inception to the Legal Profession Act of 2005 Barry Cahill provides a chronological exploration of the profession s regulation in Nova Scotia and the critical role of the society Based on extensive research conducted on internal documents legislative records and legal and general interest periodicals and newspapers Professional Autonomy and the Public Interest demonstrates that the inauguration of the Nova Scotia Barristers Society was the first giant step on the long road to self regulation Highlighting the inherent tensions between protection of professional self interest and protection of the larger public interest Cahill explains that while this radical innovation was opposed by both lawyers and judges it was ultimately imposed by the Liberal government in 1899 In light of emerging models of regulation in the twenty first century Professional Autonomy and the Public Interest is a timely look back at the origins of professional regulatory bodies and the evolution of law affecting the legal profession in Atlantic Canada

The Three Levels of Sustainability Elena Cavagnaro, George H. Curiel, 2022-08-08 Understanding the complexity of sustainability is crucial for the leadership of business organizations national governments and non governmental organizations This second edition of the bestselling book The Three Levels of Sustainability uses the same interdependent three level and three dimensional framework as the first edition encompassing societal organizational and individual levels to clearly demonstrate what sustainability means and how to implement it This new edition incorporates important developments in reporting and measuring corporate behaviors the impact of COVID 19 and the UN Sustainable Development Goals More and more societies are becoming aware of their dependence on earth s resources However there is still a deep rooted lack of awareness of the connection between society s ambitions for economic growth earth s limitations and unequal distribution of wealth Prominent institutions and organizations and their leaders rely on the conformable belief that more quantity equals more quality and that more growth equals more development Although some progress has been made since the publication of the first edition the world is increasingly characterized by division rising dissatisfaction and growing inequality between countries communities and people At the same time it is anticipated that global warming will reach a point of no return between 2030 and 2052 The fundamental paradigm shift in the way the development process must be navigated is better served by a holistic and inclusive multilevel and multidimensional approach meant to gradually align the critical institutional and individual factors essential to the pathway toward sustainable development The book has been established as an excellent primer to explain the complex issues around sustainability for postgraduate and undergraduate students as well as busy professionals and those already in management and leadership positions in the private public or non profit sectors

Urban Education Clarence Nathan Stone, 1998 With critical issues like desegregation and funding facing our schools dissatisfaction with public education has reached a new high Teachers decry inadequate resources while critics claim educators are more concerned with job security than effective teaching Though urban education has reached crisis proportions contending players have difficulty agreeing on a common program of action This book tells why Changing Urban Education confronts the prevailing naivete in school reform by examining the factors that shape reinforce or undermine reform efforts Edited by one of the nation s leading urban scholars it examines forces for change and resistance in urban education and proposes that the barrier to reform can only be overcome by understanding how schools fit into the broader political contexts of their cities Much of the problem with our schools lies with the reluctance of educators to recognize the profoundly political character of public education The contributors show how urban political contexts vary widely with factors like racial composition the role of the teachers union and relations between cities and surrounding metropolitan areas Presenting case studies of original field research in Baltimore Chicago Houston and six other urban areas they consider how resistance to desegregation and the concentration of the poor in central urban areas affect education and they suggest how cities can build support for reform through the involvement of business and other community players By demonstrating the complex interrelationship between urban education and politics this book shows schools to be not just places for educating children but also major employers and large spenders of tax dollars It also introduces the concept of civic capacity the ability of educators and non educators to work together on common goals and suggests that this key issue must be addressed before education can be improved Changing Urban Education makes it clear to educators that the outcome of reform efforts depends heavily on their political context as it reminds political scientists that education is a major part of the urban mix While its prognosis is not entirely optimistic it sets forth important guidelines that cannot be ignored if our schools are to successfully prepare children for the future
