hybrid spaces for empowerment those who are dragged forcefully to various territories and yet those who gleefully inhabit trans local spaces A wide range of voices raise these critical questions How do we read these voices How are the voices received in various locations Are these voices considered Indian Do they represent Indianness or some hybridized version of it What is an authentic cultural identity What ultimately is Indianness or for that matter any hard won national or ethnic identity Additionally as more female writers are being read both in the global south and in the north the reception of these texts particularly in an era of globalization and in the aftermath of the 9 11 attack in the United States raises questions on how the other the subaltern is represented and read Some writers use an assimilationist approach to the cultures of the West to such a degree that they find Indian culture monolithically oppressive while others continue to romanticize Indianness yet others eroticize and ethnicize the east for western consumption The authors of the essays in this anthology examine contemporary debates in postcolonial and transnational literary criticism in an attempt to understand the often complex and hybrid narratives of the diasporic Indian subject
