Environmental Geoinformatics Joseph L. Awange, John B. Kyalo Kiema, 2013-06-13 There is no doubt that today perhaps more than ever before humanity faces a myriad of complex and demanding challenges These include natural resource depletion and environmental degradation food and water insecurity energy shortages diminishing biodiversity increasing losses from natural disasters and climate change with its associated potentially devastating consequences such as rising sea levels These human induced and natural impacts on the environment need to be well understood in order to develop informed policies decisions and remedial measures to mitigate current and future negative impacts To achieve this continuous monitoring and management of the environment to acquire data that can be soundly and rigorously analyzed to provide information about its current state and changing patterns and thereby allow predictions of possible future impacts are essential Developing pragmatic and sustainable solutions to address these and many other similar challenges requires the use of geodata and the application of geoinformatics This book presents the concepts and applications of geoinformatics a multidisciplinary field that has at its core different technologies that support the acquisition analysis and visualization of geodata for environmental monitoring and management We depart from the 4D to the 5D data paradigm which defines geodata accurately consistently rapidly and completely in order to be useful without any restrictions in space time or scale to represent a truly global dimension of the digital Earth The book also features the state of the art discussion of Web GIS The concepts and applications of geoinformatics presented in this book will be of benefit to decision makers across a wide range of fields including those at environmental agencies in the emergency services public health and epidemiology crime mapping environmental management agencies tourist industry market analysis and e commerce or mineral exploration among many others The title and subtitle of this textbook convey a distinct message Monitoring the passive part in the subtitle refers to observation and data acquisition whereas management the active component stands for operation and performance The topic is our environment which is intimately related to geoinformatics The overall message is all the mentioned elements do interact and must not be separated Hans Peter Bahr Prof Dr Ing Dr h c Karlsruhe Institute of Technology KIT Germany

Civil Engineering - Volume I Kiyoshi Horikawa, Qizhong Guo, 2009 Civil Engineering is the component of Encyclopedia of Physical Sciences Engineering and Technology Resources in the global Encyclopedia of Life Support Systems EOLSS which is an integrated compendium of twenty one Encyclopedias Civil Engineering is the oldest of the engineering specialties and has contributed very much to develop our society throughout the long history of human life The advancement of civil engineering has therefore been closely related to that of civilization In this theme human activities on the earth from ancient times to the present are briefly reviewed first and then the history of the process to establish the civil engineering discipline is discussed for better understanding of the important role that civil engineering has played in the growth of a mature society from both technological and social points of view Broad diversification of civil engineering has resulted from the enormous expansion of society during the latter half of the twentieth century The various branches are briefly described to show the notable characters that civil engineering has formed to maintain the sustainable development of society The Theme on Civil Engineering with contributions from distinguished experts in the field provides the essential aspects and fundamentals of civil engineering The two volumes are aimed at the following five major target audiences University and College Students Educators Professional Practitioners Research Personnel and Policy Analysts Managers and Decision Makers NGOs and GOs

Environmental Geoinformatics Joseph Awange, John Kiema, 2018-12-08 This second edition includes updated chapters from the first edition as well as five additional new chapters Light detection and ranging LiDAR CORONA historical declassified products Unmanned Aircraft Vehicles UAVs GNSS reflectometry and GNSS applications to climate variability shifting the main focus from monitoring and management to extreme hydro climatic and food security challenges and exploiting big data Since the publication of first edition much has changed in terms of technology and the demand for geospatial data has increased with the advent of the big data era For instance the use of laser scanning has advanced so much that it is unavoidable in most environmental monitoring tasks whereas unmanned aircraft vehicles UAVs drones are emerging as efficient tools that address food security issues as well as many other contemporary challenges Furthermore global navigation satellite systems GNSS are now responding to challenges posed by climate change by unravelling the impacts of teleconnection e g ENSO as well as advancing the use of reflected signals GNSS reflectometry to monitor e g soil moisture variations Indeed all these rely on the explosive use of big data in many fields of human endeavour Moreover with the ever increasing global population intense pressure is being exerted on the Earth s resources leading to significant changes in its land cover e g deforestation diminishing biodiversity and natural habitats dwindling fresh water supplies and changing weather and climatic patterns e g global warming changing sea level Environmental monitoring techniques that provide information on these are under scrutiny from an increasingly environmentally conscious society that demands the efficient delivery of such information at a minimal cost Environmental changes vary both spatially and temporally thereby putting pressure on traditional methods of data acquisition some of which are highly labour intensive such as animal tracking for conservation purposes With these challenges conventional monitoring techniques particularly those that record spatial changes call for more sophisticated approaches that deliver the necessary information at an affordable cost One direction being pursued in the development of such techniques involves environmental geoinformatics which can act as a stand alone method or complement traditional methods

Swanson,Jeff Tayman,2012-05-23 Providing a unified and comprehensive treatment of the theory and techniques of sub national population estimation this much needed publication does more than collate disparate source material It examines hitherto unexplored methodological links between differing types of estimation from both the demographic and sample survey traditions and is a self contained primer that combines academic rigor with a wealth of real world examples that are useful models for demographers Between censuses which are expensive administratively complex and thus infrequent demographers and government officials must estimate population using either demographic modeling techniques or statistical surveys that sample a fraction of residents These estimates play a central role in vital decisions that range from funding allocations and rate setting to education health and housing provision They also provide important data to companies undertaking market research However mastering small area and sub national population estimation is complicated by scattered incomplete and outdated academic sources an issue this volume tackles head on Rapidly increasing population mobility is making inter census estimation ever more important to strategic planners This book will make the theory and techniques involved more accessible to anyone with an interest in developing or using population estimates
